This book is an essay, a story in pictures of life at Memphis State University. Memphis State is now at a new plateau of development. New ideas are abroad and with them have come new trends of thought and action. It is this spirit of transition which the 1966 DeSoto has tried to capture. In keeping with its goal, the theme of this book is the abstract. The purpose of this theme is to emphasize the new spirit which is finding its way onto the Memphis State campus.

CAMPUS LIFE at MSU

MSU Institutes Summer Orientation

During the past summer Memphis State instituted a new program of orientation for its beginning freshmen. Future students were introduced to MSU and all its workings.

Student directors conducted groups of eager-to-be Tigers through the different campus buildings and pointed out the offices of campus publications and the deans.

Special counseling sessions were held to help freshmen map their courses of study for the fall semester. Thus, when registration rolled around, the freshmen who participated in the program did not have to fight their way through the card center. Their packets were ready and had only to be filled out.

Because of the great success of the program, both with students and their parents, it will continue to be an important feature of MSU.

Freshmen meet for a final assembly during orientation.

Students listen to hints on how to have a successful college life.

MSU faculty meets the parents of their students.

Parents enjoy refreshments during MSU Parents Day.

Parents View Campus

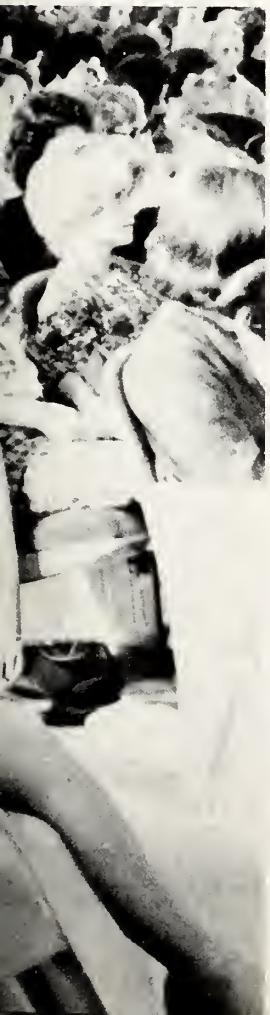
A new treat was added to the list of MSU activities this year. Omicron Delta Kappa with the assistance of Angel Flight honored parents of MSU students with an open house.

Activities of the day included a grand tour of the campus, a peep inside classrooms, an introduction to school officials and refreshments.



Students receive their share of leaflets and brochures.

Students Brave Ordeal

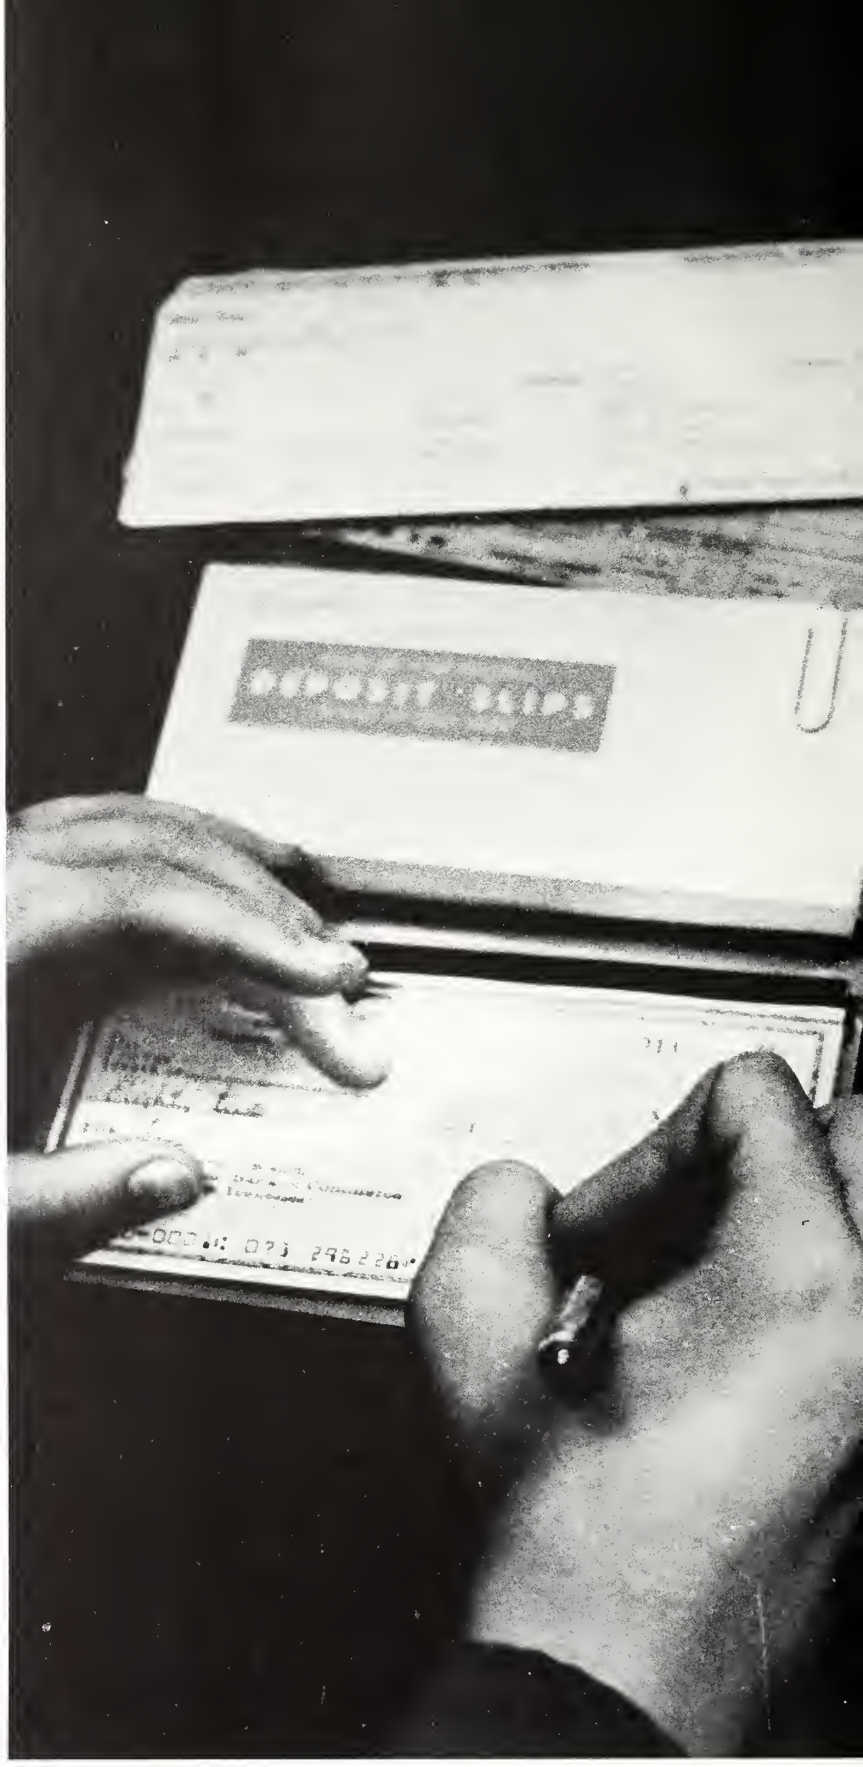
Registration with two fists-full of cards, bulletins, catalogues, a hard-earned $82.50, pencil stubs, and mounds of advice is a trial that each MSU student must face bravely.

Enduring the long line to get into the card center is nothing compared to the chaos one meets once inside. Anyone who ends up with even three of his classes the way he had them scheduled is just darn lucky. Many a student is ready to bash in someone's head when he has waited patiently only to be told that the person ahead of him got the last card for that particular class.

Once the semester has begun students begin preparing for the next gruelling episode in the card center.



Class cards mean money must be paid.

Students endure long registration lines.
A smile during these days is a rare thing to witness.

Getting class cards often takes an act of Congress.

Filling out cards proves to be an endless procedure.

Fraternity sweethearts serve during rush.

Rushees concentrate on making favorable impressions.

Rush Is Hectic

Amid the hustle and bustle of back to school preparations Memphis State squeezes in Greek rush. Eager young freshmen make the rounds of the campus sororities and fraternities.

This is the trying period of battling for rushees both internally and externally. The poor rushees pass through these trials with smiles plastered on their faces and a reserve of giggles and laughs. The same holds true for the members. Everybody concerned has frazzled nerves by the end of it all.

Then comes bid day with its shouts of joy and tears of disappointment. The Greeks then boast of their great pledge classes and things return to normal.

Actives impress rushees with their group's honors and ideals.

Singing frat songs is a frequent occurrence during rush.

Rushees make the long trek to the Pan Building.

Girls wait nervously for the parties to begin.

Rushees are herded quickly from room to room between parties.

Freshmen hurry to spend another frantic afternoon.

Bookstores Serve As Supermarkets

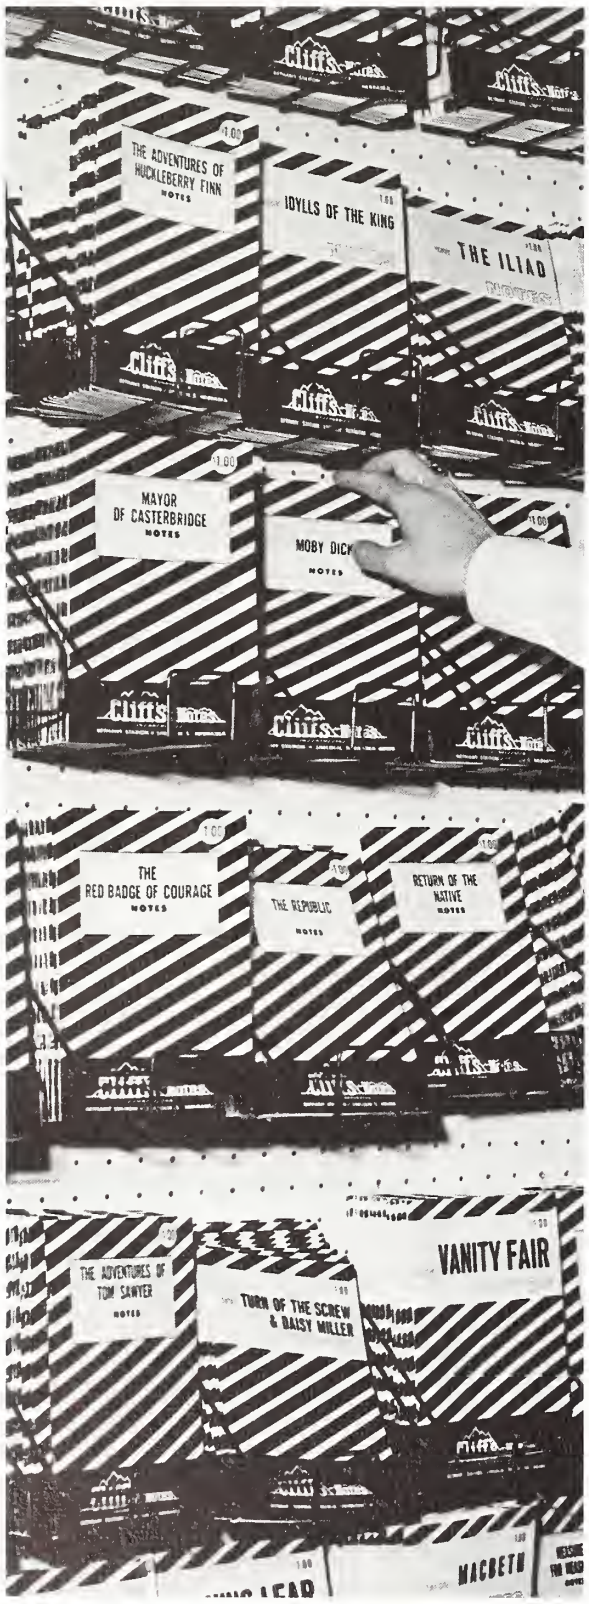
A bookstore is kind of a scholastic supermarket; it dispenses all the vital accessories of student life, like pens, paper, beer mugs, sweaters, toothpaste, fraternity decals, slide rules, crayons, and murder mysteries.

Oh, yes, and books.

Many, many books. Expensive books. Books with red covers, and books with grey covers. Books that are new this semester, but will be obsolete by the time you try to sell them back.

Just watch the manager's eyes light up as you approach the tinkling cash register.



Cram notes are an indispensable item.

Checkout time can be painful.

The bookstore offers something for everyone.

The inventory includes all those little things that make a girl's life worth living.

Would you believe—a stuffed tiger and a tube of toothpaste would cost THAT much?

Students have resorted to parking in the weeds.

Anybody get the license number?

Do you think it will fit?

Parking Proves Difficult

Parking at MSU continues to be a headache—but it does test the ingenuity of the student driver. He has evolved unique ways of trying to get on campus to miss the daily rush of the fender-banging herd. Hence one can join the rush to beat the rush, the rush itself, or the rush that stayed home to miss the rush.

Once near campus, one can always find a parking place— on the other side of the lot, with three cars headed at breakneck speed to fill it, although some swear that the empty places are a mirage in the first place.

It's first come first serve.

This is Vet's Village as it appears today.

These old buildings were home to many students.

Vet's Village Succumbs To Age

The aging converted barrack buildings, known affectionately to generations of married students at Vet's Village—and by several not so affectionate names—sing their swan song in a final blaze of controversy this year.

Tenants in the war surplus buildings complained of thin walls and shaky floors, and others sprang to the defense of the housing area, saying it made education possible for them.

The 67 apartments, which have housed married students in low-rent splendor since 1947 will be torn down, and student families will move to the Kennedy Hospital campus, where facilities will be converted to apartments.

Pledges Fight Frantically

Pledges give it the ole college try in an effort to bring victory to their sorority.

Fun runs rampant during Sigma Chi's Derby Day, as the pledge classes from sororities on campus compete in the craziest field events imaginable.

The tricycle race was one of the most popular contests with the obstacle race averaging a close second. Spectators stood laughing wildly as pledges frantically searched through a plastic pool filled with flour for poker chips bearing the Greek letters of their respective groups.

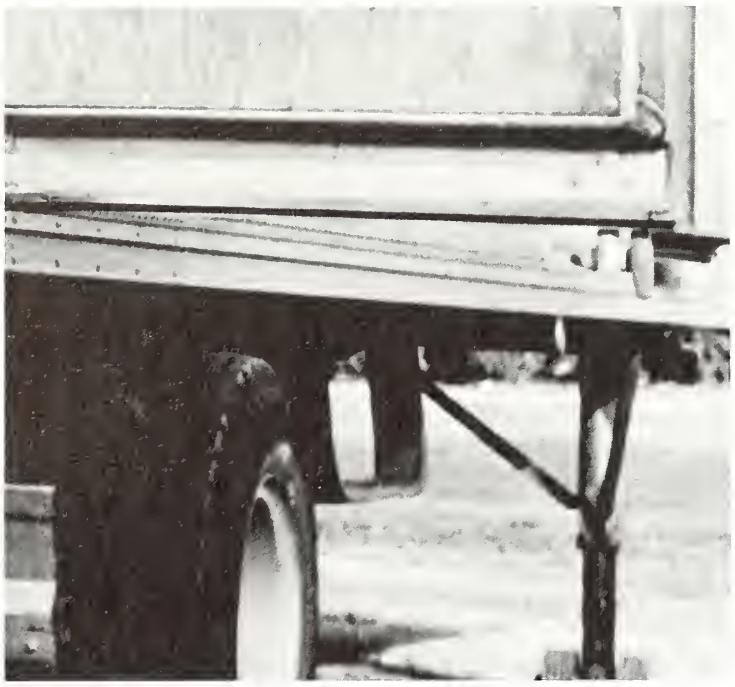
As the afternoon progressed the lines at the concession stands increased. The presentation of trophies climaxed activities and the weary students adjourned home to recuperate.

The pause that refreshes keeps both dogs and man alive.

Sucking a bottle is harder than it looks.

The heat of Derby Day is endurable when refreshments are added.

It's embarrassing when your VW gets outrun by a tricycle.



MSU would rather fight than picket.

Students give active support to boys in Viet Nam.

MSU Supports Boys In Viet Nam

While students on other campuses busied themselves picketing and burning draft cards, the student body of MSU spent its time contriving ways to build morale and to lend a hand to the boys fighting in Viet Nam.

Grasping the Christmas spirit early, MSU students led a campaign conducted by the Inter-City Council of Memphis colleges and universities to send gifts and packages to U.S. soldiers. More than $2000 was collected to cover the cost of postage and to buy other items. A MSU student who is a member of the Tennessee Air National Guard flew in the transporting mission.

MSU was particularly proud when the 101st Airborne Division, the group to which the packages were sent, made Memphis State University an honorary member of their division. The student body also received many gratifying letters from the men who received the gifts.

MSU knows how to give the gift that counts.

Members of the 101st Airborne Division show their appreciation by making MSU an honorary member of their group.

Take a quick check on sources.

The periodical file is the gateway to contemporary literature.

The biggest part of a law student's work is done in the Law Library.

There is a joker in our midst.

Library Does Exist

Since some people never see the library except during exam week, it is behooving to prove that it does, indeed, exist during the rest of the semester.

Among its finer points are stacks and stacks of books, many of which are interesting to somebody. There is an impressive card catalogue which nobody except librarians and frosh English students know how to use. And a reference room where one must be very quiet, if possible.

There is a browsing room for browsing and a rare book room for which nobody has found a reason. Also, a check-out desk where one MUST show one's I.D. card and a sweet old grey-haired storm trooper at the front door to make sure you did.

High Spirits Triumph

Pompoms, spirited cries, and elaborate displays marked the festivities of Homecoming Week. MSU went all out this year to make homecoming an event to remember.

First there was a huge pep rally which created enough noise to raise the Devil himself. This was followed by a spirit parade which surpasses all imagination. Led by MSU cheerleaders and band, students wound around all over the campus including throughout the inner sanctums of the sacred library!

By this time huge masses of crepe paper and chicken wire adorned the campus. These were built and assembled by various school organizations. Display winners as well as the Homecoming Queen were announced at a student-wide dance held in the gymnasium.

And the big day itself ended in triumph as the Tigers romped over favored Mississippi State.

Enthralled group gathers around Chuck Berry.

Alums hear a discussion on the year's theme, "The Stars We'll Strive to Reach."

Fun is a romp through the hollowed corridors of the library.

The fruits of labor—homecoming display trophies are awarded.

An original theme plus native ability makes a winning display.

The queen takes her bow.

Perseverance and hard work build both displays and muscles.

Air Force Blue Prevails

The Air Force blue is a familiar sight on the MSU campus. AFROTC cadets and officers learn everything from how to salute correctly to tactical movements and first aid.

Every day at noon male underclassmen with their Boy Scout hats perched neatly on their heads head for the drill field for their daily exercises.

Aside from their strictly military activities, AFROTC men sponsor several elections of various department queens. Highlight of the year is the Military Ball from which participants spend several days recuperating.

The AFROTC proudly display their color guard in Veterans Day Parade.

Weary cadet takes a welcomed rest after a long march.

Cadet officers lead their men in a snappy salute.

Arnold Air and Angel Flight members enjoy coffee and donuts at joint meeting.

Memphis State AFROTC was awarded the Silver Eagle for outstanding achievement.

Paul Haney, voice of Gemini Space Program, visits MSU during homecoming.

Tigers Rock at Dances

One of the most popular innovations on campus this year was the inauguration of the SGA-sponsored dances in the Student Center. Live bands provided the beat for the "Frug" and the "Slauson" as well as innumerable individual variations.

Another popular spot—while it lasted—was the Varsity 100, where Tigers gathered after football games to celebrate their victory or drown their sorrows, depending on the fortunes of the evening.

These, plus the formal and informal dances of other campus clubs and Greek groups kept Tigers literally hopping during the year.

The Varsity 100 provides much after-game entertainment.

Ancient tribal rituals are revived in modern dance.

Soft lights, a moody tune, and the special partner leave pleasant memories.

Spirit Invades MSU

Memphis State pulled out all the stops to celebrate Christmas this year. A co-operative effort by the religious clubs brought campus-wide decoration, all-day Christmas music, and the solid feeling of the Christmas spirit to the campus. But in spite of their best efforts, they just coudn't manage a white Christmas.

Dangling decorations brightened dorms for the inter-dorm decoration contest.

Dr. Humphreys pushes the button lighting the tree.

A smile and a cup of cheer from Santa or a reasonable facsimile.

A life-size wise man brightens a dorm door.

It takes a brave soul to decorate the top of the Ad Building.

It's a Mr. P. tree, whatever THAT is.

Pretty is as pretty does.

Every pageant has its technical director.

Charlynn goes over last minute details.

Acrobatic dances require precision.

Jay Cook, emcee, looks over agenda between numbers.

Contestants hear helpful hints from a past Miss Memphis.

The girls and the past Queen sing their hearts out to the audience.

Judges pass tid-bits of information during the tea.

DeSoto Produces Pageant

Letters to candidates, stage set, judges, T.V. shows—these are a few of the things which go into the making of the DeSoto Beauty Revue.

The week of the revue is hectic to say the least. Candidates are awakened at dawn to be rushed to a local T.V. station for a 7:00 a.m. appearance. Once back at school, there are classes to attend, an interview at 4:00, and rehearsals which last far into the night.

The night of preliminaries is a harrowing experience for first time contestants. Once the ordeal is over there is a brunch the next morning before the final competition that evening.

Then comes the final moment. The winner is announced, flash bulbs pop, and a queen is made.

A variety of entertainment was offered during intermission.

Exams Bring Realization And Panic Period To MSU

Strange things happen at exam time.

All at once, hoardes of students with bloodshot eyes remember there IS a library on campus. Quiet corners are occupied by couples softly whispering, "Well, then, when WAS the Magna Charta signed!?" Batman's audience takes a nosedive. Drugstores stock up on No-Doz and Dexedrene. "Go to Hell, We're Studying" signs appear on dorm doors. And the rooms are actually occupied on weekends.

Why all this last-minute hurry and worry?

Because the average student has had a blast all semester. And the awful realization has hit that it is almost Grade Time again. And if those exams are not aced, it would be out of the fun and into the cold, big world looking for a JOB. So the nonsense halts. The dates and meetings and pizza breaks are forgotten.

It is panic time.

During exam week the whole university takes on a scholastic air. Good thing it only happens once a semester. The strain's too great.

Every available space lends itself to last-minute preparation before exams.

A last-minute effort is made before exam period.

Students ask just WHAT that final exam will cover.

Springtime scholars try to outrun a cloudburst.

You meet the nicest people under a shared umbrella.

A Little Rain Must Fall

Into each life some rain must fall. Usually just as class is letting out.

It never manages to rain, though, when it would do some good. Like cancelling AFROTC drill, or postponing PE classes. It does rain, however, under certain conditions. When a humid warm air mass meets a cool dry one, it will rain every time if:

It is Friday, and all the girls just got their hair fixed.
There is a field trip scheduled to a state park.
There is a pep rally that afternoon.
The day started out sunny, and nobody brought an umbrella.
The radio said it would rain.
The radio said it wouldn't rain.

The breezeway becomes a haven for clusters of umbrella-less students. Classes can wait.

Like jewels in a new setting, campus buildings take on a new look when surrounded by a field of white.

Cold weather encourages walking close together.

It helps to identify your car—they all look alike.

Snow Brings Joy and Troubles

Snow, however, is another matter. One can trust snow. It will definitely snow at exam time, so the entire city is paralyzed except for students, who straggle in on dogsleds and skiis to take their finals. Any other time, when it might conveniently close the school and give everybody a holiday, it will definitely not snow.

Hurrying students leave their traces in the melting snow.

Cafeteria Serves Students — Faculty

Although surrounded by considerable controversy during the year, there are many nice things to be said for the cafeteria.

It is a place to eat on campus which offers food at an economical price. The lines are long, tables are scarce, conversation is stimulating, and there are always people there.

The cafeteria offers a variety of food to the hungry student.

Study sessions during meals are frequent sights.

The cafeteria is the scene of pleasant get-togethers with special friends.

Student Center Gathers Crowds

The Student Center is the haven of the campus; a sanctuary where the out-of-class student can relax and the in-class student who cut today can hide out.

It is the center for card games, it is a frat-house-away-from-home. It provides physical as well as social nourishment. For those with the foresight to arrive early, it even provides a place to sit.

To some it has been the downfall of a short but restful college career. To others it is a place to find new telephone numbers and copy homework.

At any time on any day one can find a card game going.

Students grab snacks between classes.

Quick handling of transactions keeps lines moving.

After 4:00 the student center becomes a room occupied only by chairs.

Busy comings and goings leave their traces on MSU streets.

Darkness Is The Alpha

The night campus, rather than mourning the passing of the day with its blackness, is a blackboard upon which is drawn the face of the university.

The chalk that draws the image is the reflected face of a campus policeman, the solitary window of a late-studying student. The image of the university is made with pools of light and the shadows-on-shadow traces of a dorm-bound scholar or a cloud-bound couple. Faces in a library window, intent on their research, contribute their images, as do the busy streaks marking the constant passage of cars as students go to and return from activities.

And, even later at night, when the light pools wink out one by one, and the shadows have departed—even then, the campus does not sleep.

The night has many eyes.

Wee hours are the time for renovation.

Darkness brings lonliness and solitude.

Evenings are for research and study.

Night offers the light of knowledge to the industrious student.

A typical performer sets the mood of the Razor's Edge.

Razor's Edge Features Folk Groups

The melodies of such favorites as "Barbara Allen" and "500 Miles" float through the air when the Razor's Edge is in session. Sponsored by the Westminster Foundation, the Razor's Edge offers MSU students a place to draw up chairs and listen to good folk music. Guest entertainers strum guitars and sing famous ballads. Other types of entertainment include poetry recitations and modern dance interpretations. The Razor's Edge has no cover charge and is open on weekend evenings.

A converted house is a haven for folk lovers.

The Razor's Edge was quite a "hot spot" the night the building caught fire.

Campus Grill Holds Happy Hour

The Campus Grill is the local hangout for Tigers, whether its patrons are interested in lunch or a large draft of beer. A popular feature of the establishment is its "Happy Hour" from 4:00 to 6:00. This is the time to forget all such nasty details as research papers, parking tickets, and exams.

Of particular interest in many of the male patrons is the game of shuffleboard. Rousing cheers are heard as friends urge each other on in this test of skill.

A good meal is a welcomed treat, especially if the price is reasonable.

The gang gathers for a round of shuffleboard.

There is lots of brotherhood to be found around a cool draft beer.

The Campus Grill serves as a place to get away from it all.

MSU Reflects In Faces of Students

What is a face for?

For smiling and winking at that someone across a table in the Student Center or for putting beer into at the Campus Grill. Faces are to answer questions out of class, or to ask questions in seminars.

Faces are for frowning in perplexity or lighting with comprehension, alternately with the process of learning. Faces are for tensing with emotion, relaxing with pleasure, and for being expressive.

Faces, most of all, are what people are.

Faces show learning, interest and concern.

Faces are smiling when a camera's around.

Faces are happy when they're enfolded in two strong arms.

Lectures Stimulate Campus

In order to enhance the intellectual stimulation of the campus, various departments and organizations sponsor lecture series to give students a total view of life.

Taking part in the program is the History Department, which annually sponsors the J.P. Young Lectures. This year the topic discussed was "The United States and the Politics of World Upheavel."

The Philosophy Department in conjunction with the Religious Council presented a series of philosophical lectures on "The Idea of God in Contemporary Philosophy."

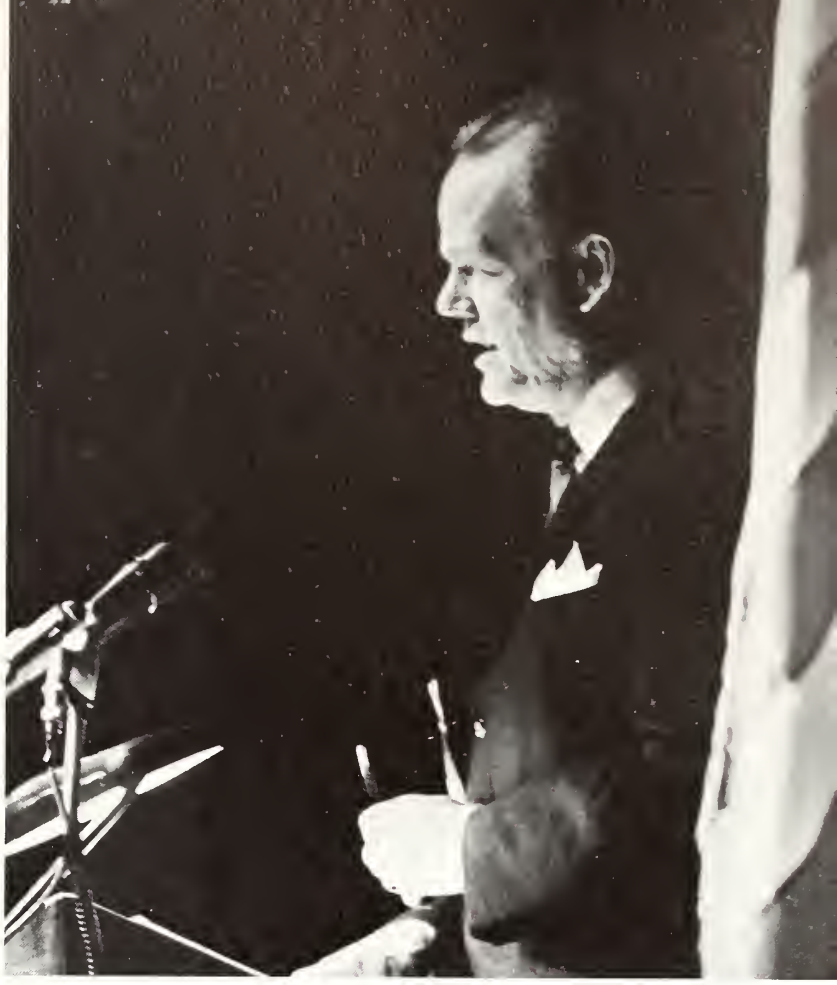
Politically, Gov. George Wallace spoke to the student body on federal-state relations. Paul Harvey's speech on the subject of Viet Nam met with wide approval among many of the student body.

The most profitable lecture series offered at Memphis State is the Goodwin Institute Lectures. The topics presented cover a wide range and are truly enlightening to students interested in pursuing knowledge.

Mr. Enoch Mitchell watches.

Many an outstanding lecturer may be heard.

Many times there are two lectures at the same time filling auditoriums.



Paul Harvey's style can not be topped.

Gov. Wallace had the right answers to any hecklers.

ASG Hold Leadership Conference

In an effort to coordinate campus activities and prepare organizational leaders for their responsibilities as officers, the student government sponsored a fall Leadership Training Conference. Officers from all clubs and organizations were invited to attend.

After a panel discussion led by important faculty members, the group adjourned for lunch. The afternoon's activities were divided into various seminars for organizational presidents, vice presidents, secretaries, and treasurers. During these meetings students brought up problems typical of their respective groups, and these were tossed about in an effort to arrive at some solutions.

The conference ended with a final assembly led by the president of the student government. At this time the draft of the new student government constitution was presented and discussed.

Students listen to the opening exercises of the Leadership Training Conference.

Faculty standouts lunch with students.

Students discuss plans for their groups during the LTC luncheon.

The gang all gathers for that last cup of coffee.

The chief checks buildings.

Campus Police Preserve Order

The Campus Police, equipped with walkie talkies, prowl cars, scooters, and large pads of parking tickets, keep things as peaceful as can be expected on the busy MSU campus. Although traffic control (to the tune of about 7000 tickets this year) is one of their major duties, building security, safety, and fire patrol are among their other important tasks.

These vital jobs they do with the grim determination born of responsibility. But there are innumerable little things they do with unfailing good humor. Like escorting late-working girls back to their dorms from stage or publication offices, and opening doors for people who have lost their keys, and the dozens of other things that nobody else could do.

Round sun glasses adorn many eyes.

Hip huggers are the latest coed fashion.

The pierced ear look is taking hold at MSU.

The latest hair cut of boys makes it difficult to distinguish their gender.

Students often stare in dismay at their fellow students.

Boots have walked in and taken over at MSU.

Adults Cluck At College Fads

Parents who survey the rash of fads on campus may cluck their tongues in superior disapproval. Beatle haircuts! Boots! Bell-bottomed Thingamajigs! Horrors!

To them is recalled the goldfish-swallowing and peanut-rolling of an earlier era—theirs. Or then there was piano-smashing and long-distance bed rolling of recent years.

At least Beatle haircuts don't take any effort. Boots are comfortable. Pierced ears may hurt at first, but they don't leave the lasting paralysis that phone-booth stuffing is known for.

Hip huggers are neater than raccoon coats, and round sun glasses are practical.

So twenty-three skidoo, parents. Batman lives!

There is no privacy at curfew time.

Slots are popular for a light date.

Dating is MSU

The main extracurricular activity on campus is dating. In fact, it may be the main reason for coming to this campus.

Where else can so many eligible males and females of marriageable age stalk each other as in the scholastic jungle? One begins to think the bachelor's degree they seek is a misnomer.

It is a more popular sport, perhaps because it is inherently co-educational, than even football; it is non-seasonal, non-sectarian, non-discriminatory, and you don't have to attend meetings, rehearsals, practices or conventions, except as mutual interest dictates.

But it is not a waste of educational time, for dating teaches the participants valuable lessons in living, like intrigue, politics, social grace, and how to keep one jump ahead of the house mother.

The flicks are a perennial favorite for a first date.

You can never decide what to order at a drive-in.

A couple looks over the coming attractions at an art theater.

Young love blossoms while waiting for a pizza.

Being without an ID card is like being a photographer without a camera.

MSU Dabbles In Politics

Elections are the occasional exercise of the democratic system at MSU where the everyday, student-on-the street voter can cast his ballot for people he doesn't even know.

For a week before elections he's king. Pretty girls with bright smiles and campaign buttons suddenly take an attentive interest in him. His hand is shaken by buddies who never saw him before. His weary way to class is brightened by handbills, placards, posters, and the cheery greetings of the campaigners.

Then he goes to the polls on election day and dutifully casts his vote for a name he recognizes if he sees one, and for the one on the top of the list if he doesn't.

And the day after elections, all the pretty girls have taken off their campaign buttons and have gone back to ignoring him.

A broken leg is no excuse for not standing in line to vote.

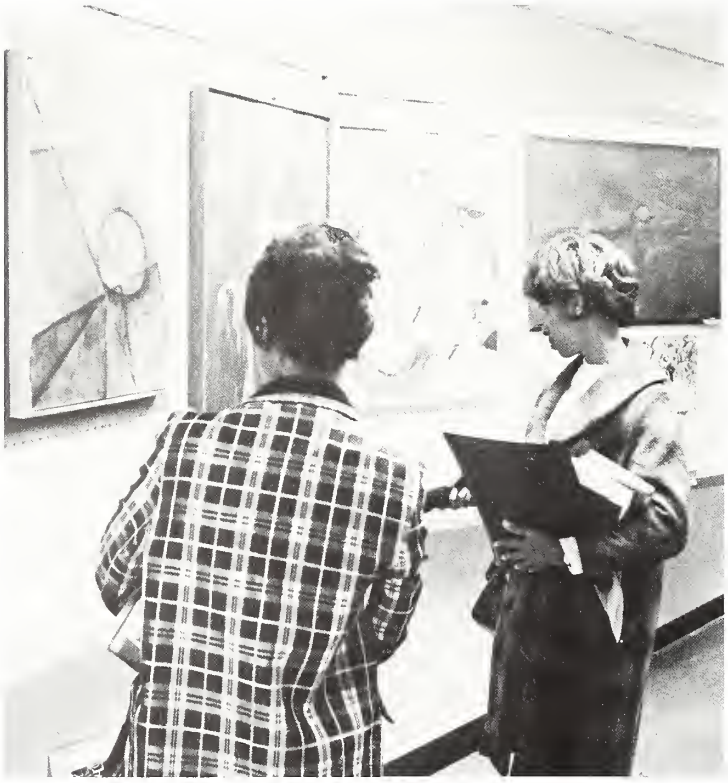
Casting ballots involves concentration for some.

Several checking stations assure legal elections.

An all-out effort is made during Mr. and Miss MSU elections.

Politics reign supreme during student government elections.

To each a different perception is seen.



Classes take time to study and learn from others.

Sometimes one finds himself reflected in art.

A better view may be found in different ways.

Art Adorns Campus

One bright spot on campus is the displays to be found in the third floor of Jones Hall. These vary from sculptures to interior design. Student and faculty works are used to decorate the walls. This gives non-art students a chance to see what their more talented friends really do do in the classes which are scheduled for such long times.

On rain-clear, warm spring or fall days art students can be seen putting up a sidewalk display on the west side of the patio. To say the least there is color added to the drab gray of the patio sidewalks. The majority of these works are for sale and usually find a new home in some student's room.

Sunlight brings out different lightings.

Students try to sun and study at the same time.

There is a mass movement across the patio during breaks between classes.

A pretty girl, a boy, a sunny day—this is a typical sight on the patio.

Perched on brick walls, boys enjoy their favorite pastime—watching girls go by.

Patio Oozes Tradition

The patio, far from being the simple concrete area it appears, is a university institution with sentiment and lore buried as deeply in the spirit of the school as are the columns of the Ad Building, the stone benches on the lawn, or the peeling paint in Scates Hall.

It is the center for band concerts, girl-watching, Coke drinking, girl-watching, conversation and girl-watching.

It is a place to be alone or in a crowd; to be in with it or completely out of it; to sit along or walk across.

Viva el Patio!

MSU's Queens

Memphis State has been said to be the campus with the world's most beautiful coeds. This may be substantiated by the abundance of beauty title holders who decorate the campus.

MSU is particularly proud of its reigning Miss Tennessee and of its beautiful Miss Tennessee Universe among the other title holding coeds.

Student Concerts Meet Success

Each year the MSU student government imports outstanding talent to entertain Tiger students. This is arranged by the student government.

The Lettermen with their usual wit and talent stole the hearts of MSU students in the 1965 Spring Concert.

The 1966 Fall Concert met great success among the MSU students who were highly amused by the antics and songs of the Serendipity Singers.

Homecoming was greatly enhanced by the swinging performance of Chuck Berry and his troupe. Tigers spent as much time just listening and watching as they did dancing.

Jerry Van Dyke and MSU students whoop it up at a Tiger pep meeting.

TV Stars Visit Tiger Campus

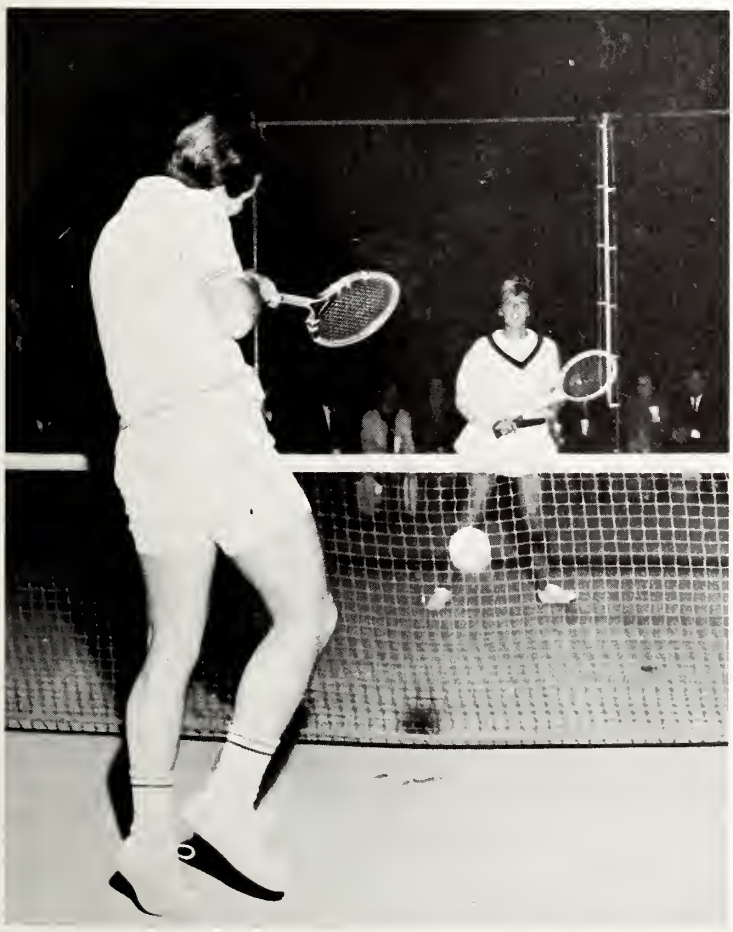
Memphis State had cameras set for action when several television personalities visited MSU. Laughter and music filled a fall pep rally when Jerry Van Dyke, star of NBC's "My Mother, The Car," visited the campus for a personal appearance.

Another highlight of the year was the tennis match staged between Pat Boone, noted TV and recording star, and Bonnie Dondeville, MSU's skilled woman tennis champ. The match between the two was a benefit to raise money for St. Jude Children's Hospital. Miss Dondeville won the match after much joking and cutting up between Pat and herself.



Pat and Bonnie battle it out on the tennis courts.

There is nothing like two hams meeting face to face over a tennis net.

Students circle the patio for pep rallies.

Tigers Let Off Steam

Thursdays at 12:30 is the time set aside for MSU students to lose all inhibitions and let off steam. This is pep rally time on the ole campus.

Cheerleaders dash about to the tune of "Go, Tigers, Go!" as crowds forfeit their lunch time and gather on the patio. Greek groups cluster and attempt to out yell their rivals. The band is loud and strong and manages to drown out the lectures of those unfortunate enough to have classes at 12:30.

DZ's work on publicity for their annual Follies.

All-Sing And Follies Shows MSU Talent

For years All-Sing and DZ Follies has showed Memphis State students' ability to sing and act. The two activities used to be on following weekends, thus making up Greek Week. However because of the complexity they have been separated by a month.

Delta Zeta sorority donates any profit for an Academic Scholarship to help MSU obtain a Mortar Board on campus.

The individual talent competition in both activities has become as large and important as the larger productions. They range from Opera to folk singing and from piano to harp music.

May Day requires much energy and a strong desire to win.

May Day Is Mayhem

So what is May Day?

The kiddies think it's twining ribbons around a maypole. The Russians think it's parading their tanks and missiles around Red Square.

Memphis State combines the best of both with its own brand of mayhem, mirth, muscles, music, and madness.

May Day is competition among Greek and independent groups in various athletic events—like distance bike riding, tug-of-war, and foot racing.

It is also the opportunity for the thrill-seeking many to participate in what is innocently called novelty events. Take the egg toss, for example, where both partners compete with other couples to see who can toss eggs the farthest without breaking them or hitting each other.

Then there is the event where one partner tries to fill a paper cup with shaving cream from five or six feet. The cup is on his partner's head, and it's assumed the two are on good terms.

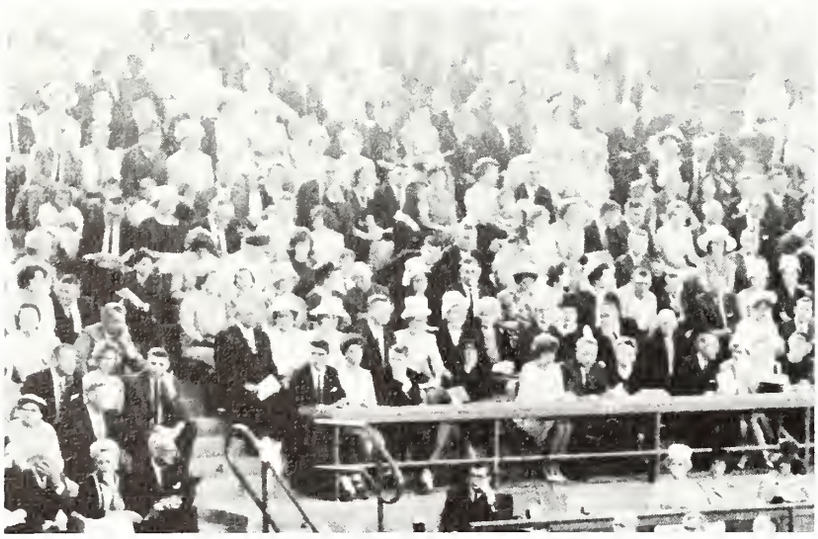
May Day is tired feet, sore muscles, sunburn, spilled cokes, girls in shorts, dust, trophys, and busted eggs. But it's a barrel of fun!

Spectators have as much fun watching as the participants do in competing.

It's the final heave that wins many a race.

May Day is hard on the ole feet.

There is nothing like a back seat driver.



Graduation ceremonies bring lasting impressions.

Graduation Recalls Memories

To coin a phrase, graduation from college comes but once in a life time. For many students this is more than enough; graduation ceremonies for the average student is a long, drawn out, hot affair. However, through all its trials beams the pleasant feeling of satisfaction in having accomplished a hard task. For future draftees there may be a tinge of green around the face as they think of the ordeal ahead.

The long speeches during commencement give much time for reflection on past college days. Memories drift out from the dark recesses of the mind. The initial shock as freshmen at academic demands has come and gone, and one recalls the change in majors as a result of that first "D" slip.

As tassels tickle ears of solemn prospective graduates, hasty thoughts of carefree sophomore days serve to remind these young adults that this era may never again be recaptured. The doubts and problems all faced as juniors are pushed back into their dark corners.

The final words of the speaker recall wandering thoughts. Soon each uncomfortable, but proud, senior will march across the stage to claim his sheepskin. As he smooths his robe in preparation for his turn, he realizes that in the past four years he has learned to live, something which can never be transferred to paper.

Time is taken for a few memories.

Parents and friends look on with pride and admiration.

Students stand to hear, for the last time as undergraduates, the alma mater.

ORGANIZATIONS at MSU

Associated Students Progress

Progression has been the key word for the Associated Student Government. Spearheading activities at MSU the ASG led the city in a campaign to support U.S. soldiers in Viet Nam.

Airplanes filled with articles brought recognition to not only the ASG but to the students of Memphis State. The 101st Airborne Division awarded the entire school, in gratitude of our Christmas effort to bring Christmas to Vietnam, the honor of Screaming Eagle.

Another innovation is the low cost Sunday night movies. An appreciation night for the faculty enabled them to see The Ugly American free.

Associated Students, in a never ceasing effort to better their organization, revised the Student Government Constitution. For the student who wants to participate in the government, one need only to fill out an application, give his schedule, and he too can have voice in the ASG harmony.

HONORARIES

At a monthly meeting Omicron Delta Kappa members make plans for their annual Honor's Day Assembly.

Omicron Delta Kappa Sponsors Parent's Day

ODK is a national honor society which recognizes achievement of exemplary character and superior scholarship among junior and senior men. Its membership is limited to the upper 1%. Membership in the organization is as much an obligation of leadership and citizenship as it is a mark of distinction. ODK is open only to those who have attained a high standard of efficiency in collegiate activities. It brings together members of the faculty and of the student body on the basis of mutual interest and understanding. Members of ODK have monthly meetings with guest speakers. The fraternity include special projects such as Honor's Day Assembly, Parents' Day, Junior Honor Society, and Speaker's Club.

Pi Delta Phi Establishes New Chapter at MSU

Pi Delta Phi is a national honorary which recognizes superior achievements in French. A member must maintain a 3.0 overall average, and a B average in all French courses. The Delta Lambda chapter was established in the Spring of 1965. Dr. Caroll L. Pell is the advisor.

Alpha Lambda Delta Tutors Students

Alpha Lambda Delta is a national honorary which promotes and encourages high scholastic achievement among freshman women at Memphis State. To qualify for membership a girl must carry a course load of at least fifteen hours with a minimum over-all grade average of 3.5 for her first semester or first year of college. Under the direction of its sponsor, Miss Bonnie Giem, Alpha Lambda Delta tutored students at Humes High School, ushered at several plays, and were guests at a banquet given by Tassel.

Angel Flight Sells Mums

The Angel Flight is an organization of college women which promotes the Air Force Reserve Officers Training Corps program. Through its many activities, it aids the progress of the Arnold Air Society. Angel Flight sold over 1200 mums for Memphis State's Homecoming during the fall. The Angels conducted a food drive for Hurricane Betsy victims and sent cookies to the 101st Air Division in Viet Nam. The climax of the year is the joint AFROTC Ball in the spring. Angel Flight is eligible to girls who are freshmen or sophomores with at least a 2.0 overall average. They must show an interest in Angel Flight and Air Force ROTC.

Arnold Participates in Polio Airlift

The Arnold Air Society, named for the late Tennessee General H. H. Arnold, is a professional honorary service program of selected Air Force Reserve Officers Training Corps cadets who have completed basic ROTC training and have entered the advanced program at Memphis State. By participating in the Polio Airlift each year, collecting toys and clothes for the Red Cross, and sponsoring an annual Christmas Party for the Neighborhood House, the Brigadier General Everett R. Cook Squadron at MSU stresses service to the community. The Society has always achieved good public relations through its charity work and by providing persons to explain to the general public the Air Force ROTC Program. Through sponsorship of the annual AFROTC Ball and smaller gatherings throughout the year, a closer and more efficient relationship among AFROTC cadets is successfully fulfilled by the Arnold Air Society.

For students with a B average, who are planning to teach Spanish, or if they are interested in gaining a better understanding to Hispanic culture, Sigma Delta Pi should be of interest. Sigma Delta Pi is an honorary recognition society for outstanding students of Spanish. A newsletter is published regularly to carry out informative programs for prospective Spanish teachers. Each spring, the annual initiation ceremony is held and arrangements are made for chapter representation at the National Council meeting. Dr. M. Gordon Brown III, Associate Professor of Spanish is the group's sponsor.

Alpha Psi Omega Promotes Drama.

Alpha Psi Omega members carry out behind-the-scenes production for "A School For Wives."

The purpose of Alpha Psi Omega, national honorary dramatics fraternity, is to further the appreciation for the very best in drama. The fraternity recognizes the outstanding accomplishments of drama students, both on stage and back stage, participating in the MSU theatre season. The year climaxed with the Drama Department's annual awards dinner. At that time new members were named to the fraternity, as well as the announcement of new officers and the presentation of awards. Attractive trophies were presented to MSU's best actor, best actress, supporting actor and actress, as well as awards for outstanding technical achievements, outstanding contributions to the MSU Theatre, and an award to the director of the outstanding Lunch-box Theatre production of the past year.

Pi Delta Epsilon Holds Open House

Pi Delta Epsilon, the national collegiate journalism society, honors junior and senior students of high scholarship who have done outstanding work on campus publications. The organization, through all of its activities on the national and local level, promotes a code of journalistic ethics in the hope that these high standards will guide the judgement of those who will later enter the profession. The Memphis State chapter sponsors a journalism open house to acquaint interested students with Pi Delta Epsilon, the Journalism Department, and campus publications.

Pi Delta Epsilon members gain practical experience by printing posters for their annual Journalism Clinic held for high school students.

Delta Sigma Rho-Tau Kappa Alpha came about last year as a merger of two older forensic fraternities. Tau Kappa Alpha has as its goals the fostering of the principles of free speech and the high intellectual quality of that speech. Its members must have proved themselves to be knowledgeable and articulate in forensic speaking. During the year members attended debate tournaments at Emory University, University of South Carolina and the National Convention in Reno, Nevada. In conjunction with the MSU debate squad, Tau Kappa Alpha members administered debate workshops and tournaments in the West Tennessee High School District.

A banquet is held each semester at which new members are recognized. A plaque is presented to the graduating member with the highest average.

RELIGIOUS

BSU members hear a guest speaker at one of their daily noon devotionals.

Baptist Student Union Raises $1,300

This year BSU raised $1,300 for a project that involved building a mountain church and having a member at work where the project took place. Tim Birkhead went to Thailand in connection with student summer missions. The purpose of BSU is to minister to the spiritual, intellectual, and social needs of Baptists and other students. Daily devotions are from 12:30-1:00. Fellowship dinners are on each Thursday evening at 5:30, and Vespers are at 6:15.

Chi Alpha's buffet dinner held at First Assembly of God Church concluded their Fall Retreat at Shelby Forest.

Chi Alpha Helps Assembly of God Activities

Chi Alpha was established on the Memphis State campus for the idea of presenting a positive, livable faith with particular relevance to the Assembly of God students. Their main projects are working with various church related activities. Chi Alpha advances, the club's weekend outings, are held twice a year. There are also discussions and devotions. Several club members were sent to Des Moines, Iowa, where Ronnie Burgess was a featured speaker.

Mr. George Snurde lectures on the Book of Luke at the regular Monday night dinner meeting held at Highland Street Church of Christ.

Koinonia Publishes "Challenger"

The K-Club has its own monthly paper called The Challenger. Information about the Bible Chair at the K-Club is published in the Christian Clarion. Koinonia, meaning fellowship, strives to promote a spiritual atmosphere on the Memphis State campus and a closer fellowship among students. Koinonia is affiliated with the Church of Christ. Daily devotions are held at the K-Club House at 12:35 with guest speakers every Thursday. Members participate in individual and team sports.

Eating together is an important part of the Disciples of Christ student fellowship.

DSF Works With Local Congregations

The purpose of the Disciple Student Fellowship is to promote Christian fellowship among Disciple students at Memphis State. Activities include participating with local congregations in the city sponsored DSF program. The entire group meets once a month for business, programs and fellowship.

"Mother" is always on hand to help alleviate the crowded cafeteria problem by serving lunch to hungry Newman clubbers.

Newman Participates in Thanksgiving Drive

Every year Newman participates in a Thanksgiving food drive at MSU. Students work on Inter-city Literacy Program and the Juvenile Court Youth Rehabilitation. The purpose of the Newman Foundation is to act as a representative of the Catholic Religion to the college. Weekly meetings are held on Wednesday evenings beginning with mass, then dinner, meeting, and ending with the presentation of a speaker. This year Newman Foundation sponsored a girl for the DeSoto Beauty Revue.

Wesley Foundation lectures cover a vast realm of interesting topics for the inquiring college mind.

Wesley Foundation Members Go to Dallas

Wesley, sponsored by the Methodist Church, was organized to give the student a chance to become a more useful individual through interaction with new ideas, education, recreation, and to let the student become himself. Their projects include trips taken during Easter vacation. Last year the club went to New Orleans and this year they traveled to Dallas.

Religion related to world affairs is the topic of the discussion lead by Dean Robinson at Westminster House.

Westminster Jointly Owns Coffee House

The purpose of the Westminster Fellowship is to understand the basic Christian affirmations and to appraise the needs of the university community in an effort to witness more effectively. Their activities include speakers and discussions on topics relevant to the college campus life in relation to itself and the world. Students work in summer service projects and also have a joint project with the Wesley Foundation, a coffee house called The Razor's Edge.

Religious Council members discuss plans for their part in the Christmas Tree Lighting Ceremony on December 16.

REW Revamped to Extend Through Year

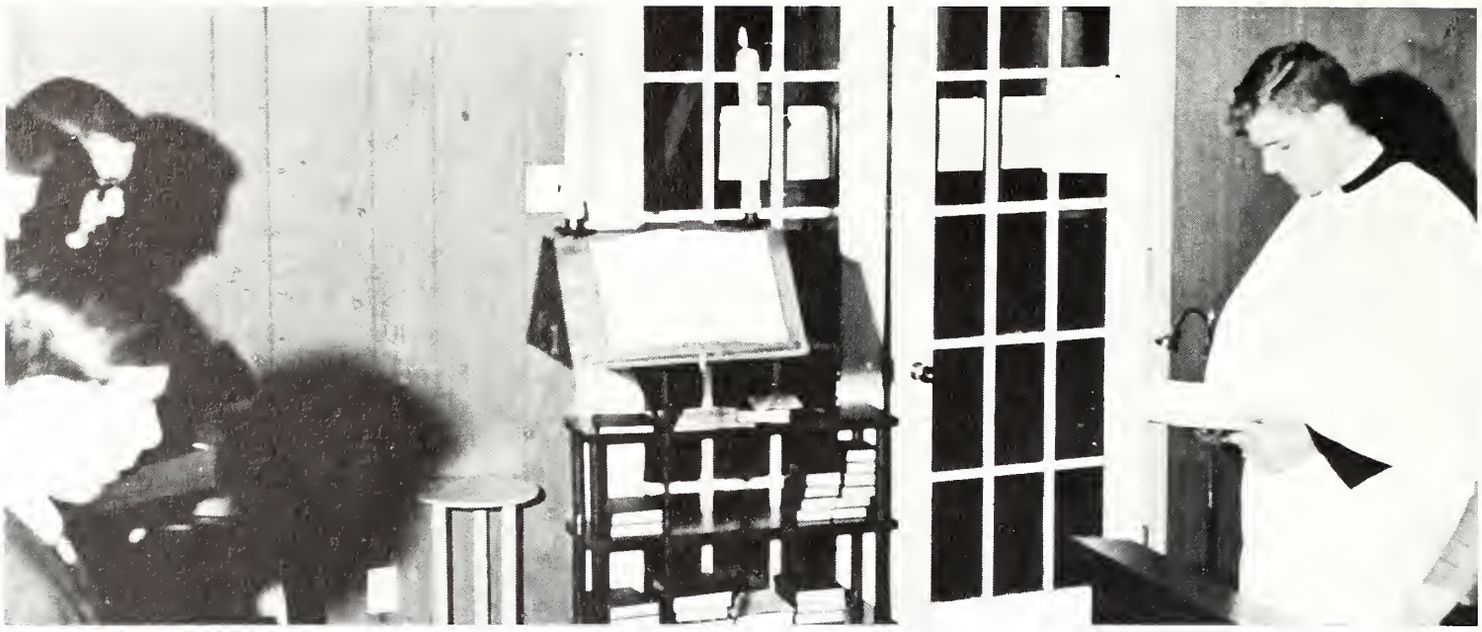
Memphis State University Religious Council was founded with the purpose of establishing links between religious foundations on campus and coordinating of the activities of these organizations. During 1966, Religious Emphasis Week was redesigned to include an entire series of lectures. The revamped program brings prominent philosophers, news commentators, and business men to the MSU campus to discuss religious theories and activities.



Episcopal students meet at the Barth House for daily periods of devotion.

Barth House Co-sponsors Philosophy Lectures

The Barth House, named for the Bishop of Tennessee, The Right Reverend T. N. Barth, is a chapel centered organization for students seeking inspiration and fellowship. This year Barth House co-sponsored a Philosophy Lectureship with Dr. Charles Hartshorne, Professor of Philosophy at the University of Texas, who spoke on The Relevance of the Ideas of God in the Contemporary World. Prayer is read daily and Holy Communion is celebrated at holy days as announced, and on Wednesdays, Thursdays, and Sundays.

Lutheran students meet every second and fourth Sunday at the Redeemer Lutheran Church for a fellowship period.

Wittenburg Conducts Tree Lighting Ceremony

Wittenburg was formed to serve the Lutheran students on the MSU campus. Last year it began the traditional Tree Lighting Ceremony and was the group in charge of it this year. There is cooperation between the Religious Council and Wittenburg in planning the meaningful event. After the ceremony this year there was a gathering in the cafeteria where President Humphreys spoke. Another activity at Christmas time was helping Boys' Town sell Christmas trees.

DORMS

Dorm Life Is An Education

Moving in takes lots of trips.

Of what is dorm life made? It is frantic cram sessions after hours, daily hikes to Normal for a decent meal, pillow fights and short-sheeted beds, and sessions till wee hours to solve the world's problems.

Dorms are curfews: curfews to come in, take showers, make phone calls and curfews to trot to the basement for goodies, watch T.V., and make up the bed. Memories are made of this.

Dorm life is an education in itself. One learns to respect others' opinions while retaining one's own ideals. It is a lesson in getting along with the human race.

Mom comes in for an inspection on moving-in day.

Scates Hall, once a men's dorm, now houses MSU coeds.

Rawl's Hall is the university's newest women's dorm.

CLUBS

Members enjoy social and professional activities in the Accounting Club.

Accounting Club Pursues Trends

Because of the complexity of modern civilization and the need for trained people to carry out its operations, the Accounting Club opens vast, new realms to accounting majors.

This organization is particularly interested in pursuing the new trends and techniques of the accounting profession. Guest speakers enlighten club members as to the many possibilities open to a competent accountant.

Group tours provide these future accountants with a preview of what will be expected of them when they take their place in the world of business.

Social occasions serve to stimulate fellowship among the club members. The annual fall banquet is a time when fun is of the essence, and facts and figures are pushed by the wayside.

A sunny spring day is set aside for the group's annual picnic. This outing serves as a pleasant escape from the trials of college life.

Chemical Society Sells Books

The Student Affiliate American Chemical Society, while composed of chemical engineering and chemistry majors, aids all students enrolled in chemistry courses by means of its group project. The club purchased chemistry handbooks which its members sell for the benefit of all students pursuing this science.

For the first hand knowledge of the chemical industry the group arranged tours through the Chapman Chemical Company and the Velsicol Chemical Corporation. While there members noted the procedures and processes they observed.

Films such as the Humble Oil and Refining Company's "Refinery At Work" give club members insight into the various fields of chemical engineering.

Noted chemists lecture the society on new developments in the realm of chemistry. Dr. Robert V. Dilts from Vanderbilt University spoke to the enthralled group on "Trace Analysis by Atomic Absorption Spectroscopy."

Meetings provide intellectual stimulation for future chemists.

Needless to say gifts from the AIID members were things for the home.

AIID Visits Designer

Of major interest to the student chapter of American Institute of Interior Designers was its visit to the home of John Simmons. Mr. Simmons, a prominent interior designer, gave the group pointers on good taste in decor.

The AIID acquaints its members with standouts in its profession. These contacts prove very rewarding to many interior design students in that they often lead to opportunities for part time or regular employment.

In addition to the professional advantages of the organization, the AIID offers its members a pleasant social life.

In keeping with the season, the group gathered for a Christmas party. A gift exchange was only one source of merriment at the get-together.

AIP Encourages Research

The MSU Student Section of the American Institute of Physics encourages members to work on unusual research projects. This scientific experimentation is subsidized by the Meric American Institute of Physics and by the Tennessee Academy of Science.

One of the most thrilling activities of the group is its participation in the Tennessee Academy of Science meeting. Held inside the Oak Ridge National Laboratories, the conference allows MSU students close contact with famous physicists and their exciting pursuits in science.

Speakers tend to whet club members' appetites for research as they expand on such topics as atomic energy. Films inform the organization of new advancements in their field.

Students pursue new realms in physics.

Fall banquet brightens AMA's year.

AMA Reveals Business World

The American Marketing Association serves to bring together students and faculty with wizards in the world of business. Notable speakers from such organizations as Chrysler Corporation and First National Bank brought vital information to AMA members this year.

Tours of various business plants opened new realms to AMA students. These on-the-spot inspections revealed many problems existing in today's business world.

Highlighting the group's activities is a fall banquet, held this year in January. Special entertainment added to the evening's pleasure.

Membership in the group may be obtained by students majoring or minoring in the field of marketing.

Amici d'Italia Delves in Culture

The Italian Club presents the ideal supplement to the study of the Italian language at MSU. Club meetings serve to enlighten students in the cultural and social aspects of Italy.

Club members particularly enjoyed slides of Italian cities and their surrounding countryside.

Recordings of masterpieces in Italian literature and music gave insight to the vast cultural heritage of Italy.

For a complete picture of the country, the club indulged in discussions on contemporary life in Italy.

Membership in Amici d' Italia is accorded to any student of the language.

Students enjoy discussion of Italian social life.

Biology Club Explores Science

The Memphis State Biology Club explores the vast areas of science in its activity-centered programs. Mrs. Alice Richie of School of Medical Technology at the University of Tennessee presented the interesting aspects of laboratory technology prior to a tour of the extensive laboratory facilities at the Baptist Memorial Hospital.

Dr. Alfred Perry guided the group on a study of animal life in Mexico by showing films he made on a recent trip there. Other activities included a trip to the Aquarium and lectures on the habits of fish.

With its purpose to stimulate interest in biology, the Biology Club welcomes any member who wishes to delve into the field of biology.

Lectures enrich Biology Club program.

Conservative Club Sponsors Wallace

One of the key speakers sponsored by the Conservative Club was Gov. George Wallace of Alabama. Wallace excited his audience with a stimulating speech on federal-state relations.

Knowing that there are people at home who care is a reassuring thing for men in Viet Nam. For this reason the Conservative Club made letter-writing to them a major project of their organization.

The club is a non-partisan political study group which seeks to establish among the students of MSU an understanding of the conservative contemporary philosophy.

Gov. Wallace speaks to Conservative Club during trip to Memphis.

Club members delve into the history and culture of Germany.

Students Study German Culture

Members of the German Club pride themselves on the fact that during all meetings German is the vernacular utilized. The object of the group is to promote proficiency in German speech.

In order to learn of German culture, papers composed in German are read to the group. These papers, prepared by students, include such topics as German literature, politics, music, and other German contributions to civilization.

Following the presentations students engage in discussions related to the topics.

The group also has made arrangements with the German Consulate in Atlanta, Georgia to borrow German films to show to MSU students.

Club Holds Engineering Week

As its outstanding project of the year the Engineering Club, a new organization on campus, sponsored Engineering Week during the month of February. Displays of interest to the general student body were set up and information concerning careers in the field was distributed.

In order to promote interest in this highly technical field, club meetings sponsored speakers who pointed out the various opportunities in the area of engineering.

Films of different phases involved in engineering, enlightened students. The group invites all students in the School of Engineering to participate in its activities.

Members become acquainted with the many opportunities offered in the field of engineering.

Members enjoy the fun and fellowship of learning folk dances.

Folk Dancers Gather Weekly

Wednesday nights are special for members of the MSU Folk Dance Club. On these nights throughout the spring and fall semesters the group gathers to learn and perform various types of folk dances.

The dances learned range from ethnic and international folk dances to the modern square dance and the contra dance which is a New England form of square dancing.

Not satisfied with just accomplishing the dances for their own pleasure, group members share their fun with others. Patients at Kennedy Veterans Hospital eagerly await the dance exhibitions put on by the club. This year the show included international folk dances from Switzerland, Germany, Yugoslavia, and Lithuania.

Theme nights are of particular fun for the group. Members choose one country and spend the evening performing its dances. Refreshments typical of the country are served.

Any MSU students can come and participate in the fun and recreation of the Folk Dance Club.

Home Economics Club Varies Programs

Members of the Home Economics Association learn more than how to cook and keep house at their club meetings. A lesson in hair styling and a demonstration in the application of cosmetics are representative of variation in the group's programs.

The club busies itself with several projects throughout the year. In the fall it holds its annual candy sale to raise money to send representatives to home economic conventions.

Spring finds the girls involved with the WMPS Cooking School. Club members serve as models, commentators, and co-ordinators for the fashion show presented during the school.

A yearly workshop with other state colleges' home economics clubs, regional workshops, and the state and national home economics conventions serve to give the girls new ideas for the MSU organization.

Future homemakers practice hairstyling tips.

IR group discusses world wide problems.

IR Delegates Attend Mock UN

Striving to give college students a practical knowledge of world affairs, the International Relations Club sent delegates to the Model United Nations Assembly held in St. Louis, Missouri. The MSU group represented Albania in the conference. The fall semester was spent gathering facts and data to give delegates a realistic knowledge of social, political, and cultural life in Albania.

During monthly meetings world issues were the topics of discussion. Speakers were obtained to present to the group the contrasting sides of the issues under consideration. Question periods aided students in their attempts to get to the crux of the problems.

A lecture by Congressman George Grider following his trip to Viet Nam was sponsored by the organization.

The IR Club encourages membership for all students who are interested in thinking seriously on relative world problems and relationships.

Members think of Gay Paree while listening to lecture.

French Club Enjoys Goodies

Members of La Rive Gaushe add spice to their monthly meetings by serving French refreshments. These French goodies are quickly devoured by all.

In order to develop a fuller understanding of the French people, club members enjoy programs on French culture, customs, and language.

Native speakers contribute much to club members' general knowledge of the French way of life. Films illustrate the beautiful countryside of France and its rich cultural heritage.

Spanish Club Throws Piñata Party

Highlight of the Christmas season for members of La Sociedad Hispanica is their annual piñata party given for the children of Memphis State Campus School.

Club members and children sing Spanish Christmas carols and hear the Christmas story recounted before taking their turn at trying to break the piñata. When the rupture occurs, there is a mad dash to gather the candy.

An exciting project of the group was its "Operation Amigo." The program was instituted to welcome visiting Columbians to the MSU campus and offered club members a grand opportunity to practice their Spanish and to learn of the customs and culture of Spanish-speaking countries first hand.

Speakers from the Peace Corps and U.S. embassies of Spanish countries broaden the group's knowledge of Spanish life.

The piñata party provides fun for all.

Management Club Presents Wizard

The Management Club is geared to presenting students with hints on how to succeed in the business world. As a branch of the American Management Society, the group invites prominent young wizards of the field of business to discuss such points as the businessman's responsibility to his community.

Frequently panel discussions are presented in order to gather different points of views on a given subject.

A spring banquet serves as the group's main social event. Membership is extended to students majoring in management in the School of Business Administration.

The Management Club learns of its responsibility to the community.

Tutors take Christmas break.

Math Club Tutors

For those students who find they have trouble calculating figures, the Math Club may be the difference between passing and failing. This is because the Math Club conducts tutoring sessions as one of its service projects.

Social events also fill the club's calendar. The group's Christmas party proved quite successful, as did the annual spring banquet held for new initiates.

At this time the club is dilligently seeking to obtain a charter from Pi Mu Epsilon, honorary mathematics fraternity.

Club membership is extended to any student interested in the science of mathematics.

MAF Provides Projects

While trick-or-treating was the activity of the day, Mitchell Aerospace Flight pledges busied themselves collecting candy and goodies for the Salvation Army. This project netted the group three hundred pounds of sweets.

Christmas time found MAF pledges caroling to raise money for a Juvenile Court fund. The fund is used to supply spending money for wards of the court.

A rousing football game between MAF and its "big brother" organization, Arnold Air Society, ensued after a joint party given by the MAF pledges.

Proceeds from Pledge Slave Day enabled the group to hold a dance at the end of the fall semester. At this time pledges were accepted into MAF and the MAF Queen was announced.

As an honorary organization purposed with stimulating interest in the Advanced AFROTC Program, the MAF creates activities and programs for basic AFROTC cadets. Membership is extended to any cadet willing to meet the group's requirements.

MAF pledges and sponsor plan Slave Day.

Individual instruction is a service offered to the young by members of Phi Epsilon Chi.

ΦEX Works With Youths

Phi Epsilon Chi, the men's physical education fraternity, is active in several projects in the Memphis area. A major group activity is sponsoring a physical education program for Tall Trees and Little City. Members donate their time to direct young boys in various sports.

On campus the organization assists in the Fellowship of Christian Athletes Day, and it also aids in the presentation of the Folk Dance Workshop.

Each month a member of the group is chosen Athlete of the Month. One party per month is also held with the idea of promoting fellowship among the men enrolled in physical education.

Philosophy Club Holds Coffees

Coffee time is a major activity of members of the MSU Philosophy Club. With a casual atmosphere as the setting, the group relaxes while engaging in discussions of various topics of interest.

Formal club meetings bring outside speakers to lecture on the various philosophies of their particular professions. Such topics as the philosophy of law enable students to draw parallels and note inconsistencies in their own philosophies and the material they study in their courses.

Members get all involved in discussions over cups of coffee.

P.E. majors test their skill against faculty members.

Women's PE Majors Club Head for Camp

Bundling up pillows, blankets, and a few necessities and heading for the YMCA Camp on Pickwick Lake provides two annual weekends of fun for the Women's Physical Education Majors Club. In the fall the girls play volleyball and other recreational games after settling down in camp. The spring outing is devoted to water sports—skiing, swimming, and diving.

The club's monthly meetings involve members in a variety of activities. They often include outside speakers or skits put on by the girls.

The Christmas party provided fun for both club and faculty members. The highlight of the party was a volleyball game in which the majors challenged the women faculty members.

Club membership is open to all majors and minors in physical education.

Pre-Legal Club officers map plans for the future.

Pre-Legal Society Is A Must

For future law students the Pre-Legal Society is a must. The group concentrates on presenting to its members the many opportunities and benefits that a career in law offers.

Prominent Memphis lawyers head the list for the society's monthly speakers. These lawyers give aspirants first hand information and advice. A representative from the CIA enthralled members with a description of some of the cases in which he was involved.

A major project of the Pre-Legal Society is its presentation of a scholarship to a promising pre-law student. Funds are raised through various activities.

Sky Divers Need Nerve

Nerve and skill are the prerequisites for membership in one of MSU's newest clubs. The MSU Sky Divers not only hold periodical jumps for their members' pleasure, but they also put on sky diving exhibitions for various civic groups.

The purpose of this club is to further the cause of sky diving in the Memphis area and to train students in the sport. Group members develop skill as well as a working knowledge of the sport's rules and regulations.

Two of the club's members have their pilot's license, and when they are not jumping they fly for their friends. The only qualification for club membership is an active interest in taking up this daring sport.

The folding of a parachute is an important aspect of jumping.

S & A Excavates At Chucalissa

Chucalissa proves to be an exciting challenge for members of the Sociology and Anthropology Club. Field trips to this old Indian settlement allow students to set to work with their shovels and brushes, gleaning bits to complete the puzzle of this tribe's cultural and social life.

Juvenile Court is another area of fascination for S&A members. Discussion groups delve into the problems of young delinquent offenders.

Social workers from Tall Trees, a youth rehabilitation center, the Public Health Department, and the City Planning Commission inform the group of new developments in their fields.

Several altruistic projects are included in the activities of S&A. During the Christmas season food is collected for needy children. The group also works in co-operation with a local orphanage.

The club takes many outings around local Tennessee State Parks.

S & B members take five during final dress rehearsal.

Sock & Buskin Produces Lunchbox

Production of the Lunchbox Theater is the major activity of Sock and Buskin. Lunchbox performances are written, acted, and directed by MSU students for the 12:30 break on Tuesdays and Thursdays.

The Speech and Drama Get-Together put on by Sock and Buskin introduces students with similar interests to one another.

The group also plays host to the gala receptions following opening nights of MSU theatrical productions.

Derivation of the club's name comes from the ancient Greeks, for whom the sock represented comedy and the buskin, tragedy.

Membership is extended to all students interested in any phase of dramatic activities.

SBA Wins Coveted Award

MSU's Student Bar Association proudly boasts of its attainment of the "Extra-Ordinary Progress Award" for this year. This award is a newly initiated recognition and was presented to the MSU group by the American Law Student Association at their national convention in Miami, Florida.

The Student Bar Association strives to co-ordinate the activities of the law students at Memphis State. Membership is automatic, but dues are accessed for activity privileges.

The most interesting activity of the SBA is their Moot Court competition, in which terms are formed to research a question of law. The various conclusions are reconciled and decided upon by a panel of three judges. The championship is attained by winning at three judging levels.

Student Bar members practice before their appearance in the Moot Court competition.

SNEA celebrates Christmas.

SNEA Stresses Professionalism

The trend toward professionalism in the field of education is markedly exhibited by the Student National Education Association.

In striving to prepare future teachers to meet the standards required by today's educational work, prominent speakers from such institutions as St. Jude Hospital, Little City, and the Memphis Public School System present new and important information to the group.

As a special project SNEA members tutor children hospitalized at St. Jude. Four teams from the organization do specialized work with the mentally retarded children at Little City.

Another activity a little less academically inclined is the annual October banquet at which members enjoy good food and excellent program.

A Christmas party and other social events serve to round out the year's activities.

Town Council Is Active in Politics

Memphis State is often called a "city within itself," and taking an active part in the government of this "city" is the Town Girls' Council. This organization provides women residents of Memphis with a representative voice in campus affairs.

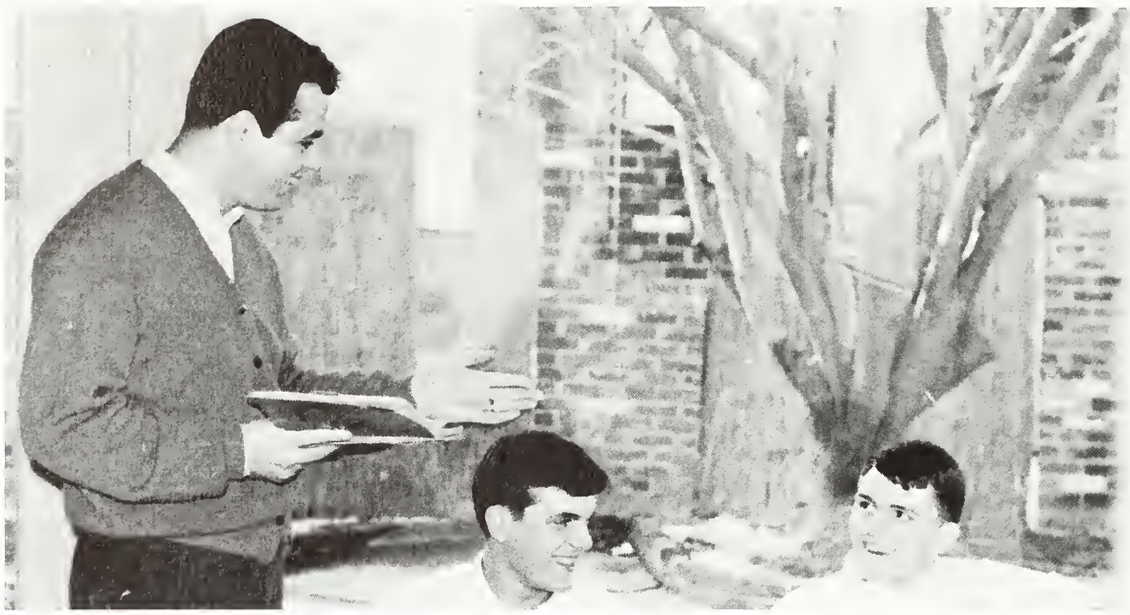
Meetings of the group include exploration of many interesting vistas. To keep up with this style-conscious age, the Town Council brought a wig expert to campus to demonstrate the grooming and styling of various types of hairpieces.

Flower arranging is a skill most women wish to possess. Thus one meeting was devoted to the artful techniques involved in flower arrangements.

The Town Council is involved in several service projects. The group makes an annual visit to the Shelby County Hospital during Easter and also collects food for needy families.

Social events include various teas. Highlighting the year is the spring banquet at which new officers are installed.

Miss Knight is an invaluable aid to Town Council.



Members of the Young Democrats discuss party policy.

Young Democrats Enter Political Life

The Young Democrats Club strives to prepare its members for an active political life in the Democratic Party. In the fall, group representatives journeyed to Nashville, Tennessee for a rally led by Vice President Hubert Humphrey.

Election time finds the Young Democrats busily campaigning throughout the area. They serve as assistants at polling stations as well as carrying out duties at the local party headquarters.

Guest speakers help to unravel the maze of the political world. Several candidates for the 1966 primary addressed the group, giving their qualifications and platforms for the fall election.

Young Republicans busy themselves campaigning.

Young Republicans Further Knowledge

Young Republicans Club members combine politics and social activities in their club program. Principally, the group is interested in developing strong, active members for the national Republican Party.

To enhance its knowledge of political life, the club sponsors various speakers who inform members of the background of the GOP and explain the party's stand on particular political issues.

During election years the Young Republicans Club is responsible for several precincts in the Memphis area. Club members canvas their areas and help get citizens to the polls to vote.

A dance in the spring serves to highlight the group's activities. This is the time when politics take a back seat and gaiety prevails.

Membership in the group is extended to any MSU student interested in the politics of the Republican Party.

Wrestlers Form New Club

The new student Wrestling Club began workouts in February, after several months of being hampered by equipment shortages. The group started with about twenty participants doing their version of the bumps-and-grinds.

The club entered its first AAU-sponsored open competition in late March, and plans to continue open competition during the summer months.

Three members with prior college wrestling experience, plus Dean of Men Don McDaniel, are engaged in training newer wrestlers, and the club anticipates a full year of competition beginning in the fall.

MSU men practice the skills of wrestling.

Zanthipany Weeds "Do-Nothings"

Zanthipany, formed on the Memphis State campus by a disinterested group of journalism nonconformists, was instigated by the burning need to fill a half page.

At their annual meeting Zanthipanies demonstrated on campus to attract attention to their cause. The cause, by the way, was to get a few staff members who would do their jobs half way right and turn in assignments no more than two weeks late. Although the movement failed, there still may be hope once the "do-nothings" have been weeded out.

Members greatly enjoyed their spring dance, held in the Pandemonium Room of the Riverbottom Club.

Although there is no age limit, Zanthipany offers membership to but a chosen few.

So. Mississippi

A third straight victory was won by SOUTHERN MISSISSIPPI over the Bengals in Memphis State's second game of the season. Having defeated the Tigers twice before, Southern repeated their performance a third time with a domination of the statistics in all but passing. Vic Purvis, Southern quarterback, led the way in running and passing; he averaged 9 yards per carry on 28 runs and advanced another 74 yards in 3 completed passes.

Ole Miss

Memphis State's Tigers launched their 1965 grid season with a game to dedicate the new Memphis Memorial Stadium. Playing against a strong arch rival, OLE MISS, the Tigers scored more points (with the exception of 1960) than they have in the past against the Rebels. Although losing 34-14, Memphis State was only slightly behind statistics-wise, as they led in passing yardage, trailed by only a small amount in total yards gained, and were only one first down behind the Rebels' statistics; and, with the exception of 20 points scored in only nine minutes of play by the Rebels, MSU might have repeated the 1963 feat of tying Ole Miss.

Half-time strategy proves successful in Homecoming game.

Mississippi State

Homecoming 1965 was a glorious one for the Tigers of Memphis State University. A pre-game look at the situation, however, appeared to be ominous for Memphis State since the Tigers, winless in three previous attempts, were pitted against the Bulldogs of MISSISSIPPI STATE. The Bulldogs were undefeated in their first four games and ranked No. 9 in the nation on the AP poll. A superb team effort along with the pass interceptions of defensive back Olie Cordill, the line running of fullback Herb Covington, and the unbeatable passing combination of quarterback Billy Fletcher and end Bob Sherlag, ran over the Bulldogs to the tune of 33-13. Coach Paul Davis of the Bulldogs summed it up nicely when he said "That wasn't the same Memphis State team we've seen before."

Don Jones (42) and Bob Sherlag (31) defend against Tulsa's nationally ranked Howard Twilley.

Tulsa

Memphis State's third loss in as many tries was handed to them by the Hurricanes of TULSA. Billy Anderson, Hurricane quarterback, showered the Tigers with 39 of 65 pass completions for 477 yards. The Tigers staged a strong comeback after an unfavorable 21-7 half-time score, and would have won had it not been for a strong last-minute defensive effort by Tulsa, who remained ahead to win with a score of 32-28.

McNeese State

Although beginning their season rather slowly, MSU strode past the halfway point of the season with a 28-0 romp over the Cowboys of McNEESE STATE. In their first game against a major college, the Cowboys were hoping for an upset; but this hope soon dimmed as the Tigers scored 14 points in the first quarter. Herb Covington and Terry Padgett, sophomore Tiger fullbacks, made their contributions to the game in the form of well-maneuvered 11-yard and 67-yard touchdown runs respectively.

After intercepting three passes Olie Cordill is sidelined by a third quarter injury.

Ron Higdon — End

Don Jones — Tailback

West Texas

The Tigers, repeating their performances of the two previous games, established themselves with a 3-3 record after a 27-12 victory over the Buffaloes of WEST TEXAS STATE. Herb Covington and Tom Wallace, Tiger running backs, were the backbone of all four Tiger touchdown drives. The defensive unit displayed its talent in holding the Buffalo attack to 53 yards rushing, while the Tiger offensive gained 337 yards rushing.

Fletcher rolls right looking for receiver downfield.

Utah State

UTAH STATE was handed its first loss of the season and its first shutout in 50 games by the MSU Bengals to the tune of 7-0. Defensively, MSU's team proved to be one of the best in the country during this game, as it shut out the leading scoring team in the nation. Defensive ends Reg Sharley and Ron Higdon recovered one fumble each, and left tackle Larry Duck recovered two. The Aggies, with a 382-yard running average, were stopped with only 237 yards total offense.

Fletcher hands off to Tom Wallace for a first down against Tulsa.

North Texas

Another shutout, 28-0, was scored against the Eagles of NORTH TEXAS STATE. Quarterback duties were fulfilled for the most part by sophomore David Cox, as Fletcher's injured leg was heavily bandaged. The defense team again shined as it held the passing attack of the Eagles to 18 completions for 52 attempts.

Wake Forest

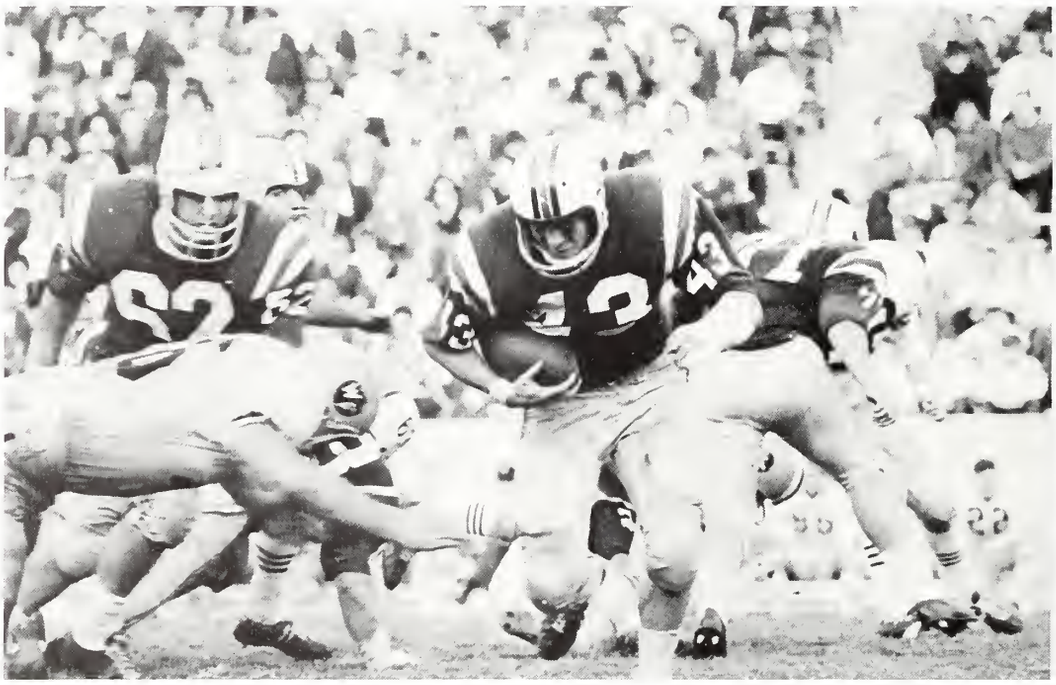
A gamble and a loss defeated Memphis State in its game against the WAKE FOREST Deacons. As the last quarter drew to a close with the score 21-14 in favor of Wake Forest, the only hopes the Tigers had of winning the game was to score 8 points. After Richard Coady set the Tigers up on the Deacon six, Billy Fletcher passed the six-pointer to Billy Hale, making the score 21-20; Fletcher's pass for two to Coady was incomplete, however, and the Deacons ran out the few remaining seconds of the game.



With the help of the front line, Wallace turns the corner on Wake Forest defenders.

A Wake Forest back finds going rough in MSU territory.

Quantico

Memphis State ended its 1965 football season on a tying note, 5-5, as the Tigers dropped their final game of the season 20-14 to the QUANTICO MARINES. At one point, with the score tied 7-7, it seemed as though Memphis State would be on the move to win; but pass interceptions and a nullified Tiger touchdown soon turned the tide in favor of Quantico.

Freshmen Stand Undefeated

The Memphis State freshman football team kept a clean slate throughout their season and emerged with an undefeated 3-0 record to its credit. End Larry Groce and quarterback Durwood Gordon shone in their first seasonal 20-12 victory against the Gordon Military Cadets. Southern Illinois frosh, defeated 21-6, also met their match through players such as quarterback Dick Cockrell, ends Larry Groce and Pat McCrea, fullback Bill McRight, and guard Fred Williams, Southern Mississippi fell to the Tiger frosh by a slim 14-13 margin. Fullback Joe Rushing scored on a one-yard set-up by fullback Bill McRight, wingback Nick Pappas scored on a 92-yard kickoff return, and end Larry Groce kicked both extra points.

MSU Sports Soph Team

There are not many all-sophomore teams in major college basketball, but Memphis State nearly had one this year and wound up with a record to prove it. The Tigers finished 10-15 for the season, disappointing to some perhaps, but not so bad when one considers the caliber of competition the inexperienced team was up against.

Final statistics reveal that MSU's first five scorers are sophomores and nine of the team's first ten players are returning next year. Mike Butler, Jim Hawkins, and Jack Romp ended their first varsity season with double-figure scoring averages, and Jim Hawkins was the leading rebounder.

Although MSU managed to disprove the theory that a team which gets more field goals and rebounds than its opponents should win more games, the experience gained this year coupled with the team's talent bring optimistic outlooks for next year's season.

Mighty Freshmen Triumph

Starting the season with ferocity typical to a Tiger squad, MSU's frosh basketball team continued its firey spirit to the season's finish.

Six players proved their accuracy by racking up point averages in double figures. Center Jim Smith amazed crowds with his ability to rarely miss the goal and won acclaim for himself with his spectacular average of 19.1 per game. Forward Wayne Carby, on the bench during the last eleven games due to an injury, managed to amass an 18.7 average, much to the pleasure of the coaching staff.

Statistics support the grand performance of the freshman team. After a season record of 13-4 by the frosh team, the varsity squad anxiously looks forward to rounding out its ranks with these outstanding freshmen.

GYMNASTICS

The Memphis State Gymnastics Squad, in its second year of competition, has increased in number of members to ten and will compete in ten meets this year compared to five meets last year. Several of the gymnasts placed in the Southern Championships last year: Roddy Yager was the Southern Intercollegiate Rope Climb Champion of 1965, Rick Clark placed at the S.I.G.L. Championships, and Jim McKinney was fifth on the Side Horse and seventh in Free Exercise.

Memphis State had victories over the University of Louisville, 122-70, Furman University, 148-0, The University of Georgia, 148-100, and David Lipscomb College, 142-91. With a bigger squad this year and more experience the Tiger gymnasts should place in all events at the Southern Championships and the District Nationals later in the year.

GOLF

The MSU golf team got off to a good start with a first place in their first meet, the Sunkist Invitational, places by Bob Lundy.

Following games on the swinger's schedule were the Buckhaults Invitational at Mobile on March 17 and 18; a three-way match with Alabama and Mississippi State at Starkville, Miss., Mar. 26; then a match with Washington U. at Memphis three days later.

April brought meets with the University of Arkansas at Little Rock on Apr. 2; the U of Missouri at Memphis Apr. 4; a 3-day match with LSU started Apr. 7; and two 3-ways, one with Ole Miss and LSU on the 18th and the other with University of Alabama and Ole Miss at Memphis on the 25th.

The Tennessee Open on May 13, 14, and 15, plus other matches at Memphis area country clubs rounded out the season.

VARSITY WOMEN

The Memphis State University Womens Varsity Volleyball team, coached by Suzanne Blackshire and Betty Roberts, instructors in the Physical Education Department, competed in two tournaments this year placing second and first. The first competition was at Northwestern State University in Natchitoches, Louisiana where they placed second to North Texas State. In November the team traveled to ETSU in Johnson City, Tennessee where they accounted for the championship with an all-around well balanced team consisting mostly of freshmen while only three of their team members were upperclassmen.

The basketball varsity team was coached this year by Barbara Antonelli. Competition at the beginning of the season was with local teams such as Sienna College. The high point of the season came when the team traveled to Carson Newman for the Southern Tournament.

INTRAMURALS

The Turkey Trot Cross Country Run was added to the Intramural Program this year and proved to be a success with over fifty entrants.

Intramurals Spark Competition Among Campus Groups

The Memphis State Intramural Program was sparked this year by the superb efforts of Mr. Melvin Humphreys, Director of Men's Intramurals, and Miss Barbara Dowd, Women's Director of Intramurals. From the opening games of volleyball in the fall to May Day in the spring, every week was filled included some intramural activity.

The competition divided into various leagues: including dormitories, independents, AFROTC, physical education majors, sorority, and fraternity

For the second consecutive year the Alpha Gams sang and danced their way to a first place in DZ Follies. Another first was achieved when Alpha Gamma Delta was first in scholarship among the MSU sororities.

Having established the tradition of serenading fraternities and men's dormitories, the excited Alpha Gams repeated their annual performance, and then joined with Sigma Chis to serenade President Humphries.

Alpha Gam actively participates in campus affairs, and its members hold such key positions as commander of Angel Flight, editor and associate editor of the yearbook, associate editor of the Tiger Rag, Homecoming Queen, and head majorette of the MSU band. Student government officers also rank among the AGD's.

ΑΞΔ Hosts Faculty

Alpha Xi Delta held its annual Apple Polishing Party for the MSU faculty in November. As guests munched on pie and sipped coffee, they chatted with sorority members.

Rush camp was a stimulating time for the Alpha Xi's. Meeting with the Lambuth Chapter, the girls formulated new plans and activities for fall rush.

The Christmas formal and fall hayride are only some of the fun-centered social activities of the group.

Alpha Xi is proud to have in its group the president of the SNEA and the recipient of the Math Award.

ΠΒΦ Visit '20's

A visit to the era of Elliot Ness characterized Pi Beta Phi's "Roaring Twenties" Party. Decked out in their flapper costumes, members and dates took a whirl at that favorite dance, the Charleston.

ΣΔΤ Honors With A Tea

An annual Mother-Daughter Tea sponsored by Sigma Delta Tau is just one of the highlights of their college life. This tea is also given for high school girls in Memphis and is purposed to show them a glimpse of sorority college life. During the tea, various college songs are sung and skits are presented by the members.

Their spring formal is characterized by many unusual extras; for instance, besides the actual formal, an informal get-together was enjoyed. For those who are somewhat romantically inclined, the excursion on the "Memphis Queen" proved to be an exciting adventure.

The theme for this year's fabulous weekend of fun was entitled "The Showboat." A greatly anticipated aspect of the formal is the presentation of the scholarship trophy to the best pledge.

Panhellenic representatives legislate group policy.

Mrs. Eva Powell serves as housemother to ten sororities.

Pan Governs Sororities

Women's Panhellenic is organized to govern the affairs of the Greek sororities on the Memphis State campus. Panhellenic is staffed by representatives from each national organization at MSU.

Sorority representatives serve as spokesmen for their respective groups. One of the many concerns of Panhellenic is the organization of women's sorority rush. During monthly meetings members set up general rules of government.

Another major area of Panhellenic's jurisdiction is the establishment of house rules for the Panhellenic Building. Throughout the year representatives discuss problems common to all the sororities and try to work out solutions.

Stray Greeks Unite

With the rapid growth of Memphis State many students from other schools have been attracted to the campus. This leads to a situation of many stray Greeks wandering about unattached to any group.

In order to rectify this situation, sorority girls whose group is not chartered on the MSU campus banded together under the name Alpha Omega. The organization has already begun serving the campus, although their charter was just freshly authorized this year. Such projects as baking cookies for an old folks' home give the girls an active interest in the community as well as Memphis State.

A roaring ovation greets the Greek Goddess at the IFC banquet.

IFC Expands Rush

The Inter-fraternity Council, the governing body for fraternities, performs many invaluable services for the university. The council is entirely responsible for fraternity rush. Fall rush included new innovations for the rushee and Greeks alike this year. It began with a banquet and was closed with the all fraternity IFC dance.

The IFC sponsors the Greek Goddess contest and has initiated a new and expanded Greek Week in the spring.

One of their major projects this year was lending support to the Student Viet Nam Aid Program. Greeks contributed close to a $1,000 to buy supplies for soldiers. Fraternity members also manned the truck for Memphis donations.

Working as advisor to the IFC this year was Associate Dean of Men, David A. Collins.

Fraternity presidents gladly donate money to the IFC projects.

Lambda Chi Wins Homecoming

Crowning Lambda Chi Alpha's year came the award of first place in the fraternity division of Homecoming Displays with an oversized soup can. The pop art impression of Campbell's Creme of Bulldog Soup revolved on the fraternity house lawn.

Community service is important to the Lambda Chi's. If one visits them and finds them not at home, they could be out answering Mayor Ingram's plea for a cleaner Memphis or sponsoring a Christmas party for an orphanage. Unfortunately this year saw the halt of their annual project of cleaning Negro graveyards.

With all this, Lambda Chi Alpha has managed to hold down the number one spot in fraternity scholarship for three years.

ΠΚΑ Pledges High In Academics

Pi Kappa Alpha is still celebrating the academic feats of their pledge class. The pledges ranked first among fraternity pledge classes and netted the scholarship award for their brothers.

Active in school politics, the Pikes are proud to claim the president of the student government and of the Inter-Fraternity Council. Club officers are abundant among the men of Delta Zeta.

Pike parties are many and varied. Aside from sponsoring informal parties for the sororities on campus, the group throws its annual Dream Girl Ball. Here the new sweetheart receives her title.

ΠΚΦ Receives Charter

The youngest colony at MSU is that of Pi Kappa Phi. This infant fraternity, symbolized by the star and lamp, has adapted itself well to the pace of Greek life; hence it received its charter this spring, thus raising the number of men's fraternities on campus to twelve.

The Pi Kappa Phi's sponsor two main social events, their Founder's Day, which is highlighted by a banquet and a dance enjoyed by members and local alums, and the spring Rose Dance in honor of their new sweetheart.

Members are looking forward to their trip to Miami in August for the Biannual National Council meeting.

Pi Kappa Phi displayed its athletic prowess on May Day '65 by carrying away the Independent League Trophy.

ΣΑΕ Captures Trophy

Sigma Alpha Epsilon started the spring of 1965 with a bang by capturing All-Sing's first place trophy for the second year in a row. With a taste for winning, the group proceeded to set their goals for the fraternity intramural trophy. A first place in basketball, softball, and May Day competition accomplished their goal.

With the feeling of success still hot in their blood, the men of SAE ran away with the MSU turkey-trot turkey which the group graciously donated to Memphis Boys Town.

Alums and parents are welcomed to the house on Parents Day.

ΣΦΕ Holds Key Positions

Participation in campus activities is an important aspect of college for the men of Sigma Phi Epsilon. From this group hailed the editor of the Tiger Rag, and three officers in the student government.

Social life gets under way with the Diamond Princess Ball. The Queen of Hearts Ball is Sig Ep's most elaborate event. At this dance the sweetheart is announced and awards presented.

Tennessee Beta, as far as intramurals are concerned, was third in 1965 competition, and captured first in fraternity volleyball.

A new Sig Ep tradition was initiated this summer by a few of the itchy-footed brothers. Their Mojo's took them to Panama City, Auburn, St. Louis, Tilton, Ky.—all in twelve hour spans.

ΣX Sponsors Derby Day

Derby Day is that time of year when the whole campus turns out and goes wild. During Derby Day the Sigma Chi's sponsor competition in ridiculous contests for sorority pledges.

The most outstanding social activity of the spring is the annual Sweetheart Ball weekend. The festivities begin on Thursday with an open house for all sororities, followed by a warm-up party Friday night. At the Sweetheart Ball on Saturday night the new sweetheart of Sigma Chi is announced.

Among Sigma Chi's altruistic projects is the Halloween candy drive for the children in Memphis hospitals.

ΠΣΕ Chapter Leads Nation

Being the largest, most active, and by all measure the most affluent chapter of this international professional fraternity, Kappa Chapter of Pi Sigma Epsilon has been pointing the way in its own fraternity and in Greek life at Memphis State. Such innovations and activities as "Operation Get Together," which is the graduate brochure published by Pi Sigma Epsilon, the Annual Christmas Card Sale, and the annual Commerce and Industry Exhibition, give this fraternity a uniqueness and sense of individuality unknown to most other fraternities.

The Commerce and Industry Exhibition, sponsored by Pi Sigma Epsilon, is an annual two-day showing of Mid-South business and industrial achievements. Other sales promotion work is conducted by PSE members for the benefit of students, parents, faculty, and interested citizens.

Kappa Chapter holds an annual senior breakfast each semester to honor those graduating.

Thirty-Seven Seniors Honored in Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities

Certain Memphis State students have distinguished themselves by displaying outstanding talents and showing their worth and potential in various phases of campus life. This year thirty-seven Memphis State seniors were recognized as outstanding when they were named to the Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities.

To be nominated, a student must receive a recommendation from his institution, which is endorsed by a faculty or administrative member. Each participating college or university is assigned a specific quota of candidates according to enrollment. The method of selection remains a secret unless announced by the local committee.

Shelia and Bill Claim Titles

After a furious, heated campaign, the two most deserving seniors came away with the titles of Mr. and Miss Memphis State. With her "Mona Lisa smile" and her charming wit and sportsmanship, Miss Shelia Massey captured the admiration and vote of her fellow students.

Claiming the much deserved title of Mr. Memphis State was an amiable Memphis resident. Campaigning on his various outstanding college activities, Mr. Bill Tomlinson stepped forward the victor.

Pat Wins Crown

"Hats off to Pat" was the slogan which won the votes that enabled a Whitehaven, Tennessee girl to gain the title of MSU Homecoming Queen. Pat Arendale, representing Alpha Gamma Delta was presented her crown at the homecoming dance held on campus.

To be eligible the girl nominated had to be a junior or senior who was active in at least three campus activities. After hard campaigning by the ten candidates and their supporters the final decision was made by popular vote of the student body.

MSU's 1966 Homecoming Queen

Students take time out to cast their vote for Homecoming Queen.

A campaigner pleadingly tries to convince two prospective voters that her candidate is best.

AFROTC Chooses Queen

One of the highlights in the AFROTC program is the election of the AFROTC Queen. Girls are nominated by various squadrons which act as their campaign managers. Posters and handbills literally cover the walls of Jones Hall. Walking through the halls is like visiting an art gallery because of all the photographs of pretty smiling faces.

The big announcement of the queen is made during the Military Ball. This year a pretty, petite blond from Berkley, Missouri, Miss Marilyn Morrill, captured the honor. As queen she will reign over all AFROTC functions and be honored during the AFROTC Ball and the Veterans Day Parade.

Beauty Revue

A crowning achievement for an astonished young lady.

Her satin singing style captures an enthralled audience.

Past and present Queens share ramp as Miss Congeniality looks on.

A queenly stance wins the judges' aproval.

DeSoto Beauty Queen

Competing with thirty-five other beauties, eighteen year old Susan Gaushell, a freshman from Baton Rouge, Louisiana, charmed a panel of five judges and won the 1966 DeSoto Beauty Revue.

The green-eyed beauty copped the crown with a white swimsuit and a satin singing style reminiscent of Julie London.

Sitting back stage waiting for a tardy accompanist, Miss Gaushell snacked and talked with reporters. She quipped: "If I have to, I'll go out front and entertain the audience by eating a hamburger and drinking a Pepsi."

The accompanist arrived, and Susan captured the audience as she delivered spicy renditions of "When Sonny Gets Blue" and "I Wish You Love."

The blond haired queen is the first independent to win the award in the nine year history of the pageant. She was sponsored by an independent organization, Smith Hall.

As Queen, Miss Gaushell wins a week long trip to Jackson, Tenn. in July to compete in the Miss Tennessee Pageant. The week is filled with appearances, interviews and stiff competition.

Inter-squad squabbles prepare the MSU debate team for the championship circuit.

Forensics Host Tournaments

Five full-time teams of the MSU debate squad argued the pro's and con's of "Law enforcement agencies in the U.S. should be given greater freedom in the investigation and prosecution of crime," the 1965-66 National Debate topic at tournaments in Illinois, Alabama, Arkansas, Mississippi, Florida, and Tennessee.

Under the sponsorship of instructors, Judith Schulz and Michael Schon, Memphis State debaters host two high school tournaments and a mock Congress each spring.

By fostering forensic activities: debate, extemporaneous speaking, oral interpretation of literature, oratory, and impromptu speaking—the debate squad fulfills an outstanding function of the MSU Department of Speech and Drama.

Debaters John Elder and Jeff Koch pursue the squad's favorite pastime—a frustrating game of chess.

Choral Groups Entertain MSU

Memphis State's Choral Organizations consist of five groups with an aggregate membership of some 220 students.

Activities for the year include formal concerts with orchestra in December and May, Christmas carolling, and spring patio concerts, as well as numerous performances for local churches, civic groups, and campus meetings.

Between semesters, the Chorale toured Middle Tennessee, performing in Chattanooga, Tullahome, Shelbyville and Nashville.

Other highlights included the Chorale's singing for Gov. Clement on Veterans Day and opera chorus performances by the Chorale in "Cosi Fan Tutti" and "Sister Angelica." Dr. Walter Wade is director of choral activities.

Steinbeck's paranoid Lennie attacks pessimistic crooks in "Of Mice and Men."

A frustrated society woman tries to silence what she fears to hear in "Camino Real."

Lunchbox Produces Plays

These entirely student-produced dramas traditionally presented during the noon hour on Tuesdays were expanded this year to include every day of the week. The production of more than a dozen plays gave neophyte directors and actors an opportunity to practice their craft.

A toast is made to forthcoming marriage in the opera "Cosi Fan Tutti."

Two suitors disguise themselves as foreigners to test their sweethearts' fidelity.

Operas Score Hits

The Music Department has produced a full-scale opera annually since 1949. This year, for the first time, they did two productions. The first was a comedy, "Cosi Fan Tutti" translated "women are like that." This was the first repeat performance in seventeen years. It was originally done eight years ago. The second opera was a combination of "Gianni Schicchi" and "Sister Angelica," both by Giacomo Puccini.

In years past all facets of the Fine Arts Department collaborated on this project. Now, however, it is done entirely by the Music Department. All of the parts are played by MSU students except for some professional strings in the orchestra.

Each year the Shakespeare Festival is a Citywide activity.

Eastward Ho!

A rarely-produced Elizabethian comedy by Chapman, Marston and Jonson was directed by visiting professor Eric Salmon as MSU's entry in the city's annual Shakespeare Festival.

School for Wives

This French farce on May-December love was written by Moliere, according to director Bradford White, as a comment on his own less-than-perfect marriage.

The light-hearted comedy was presented in early December.

No marriage can be perfect as shown by MSU students.

Part of the Fine Arts Complex, the Speech and Drama Building will house an expanding program in two theaters.

Jules Romain's delightful spoof on medicine, "Dr. Knock," was the fall's first major theater production.

Dr. Knock

Dr. Knock, firm believer that "The healthy are merely the sick who don't know it," made otherwise healthy audiences sick with laughter during its three-day run as the season's first major production. The comic-takeoff on the medical profession included an edge of satire on medical fanaticism along with its humor.

Chamber Theatre

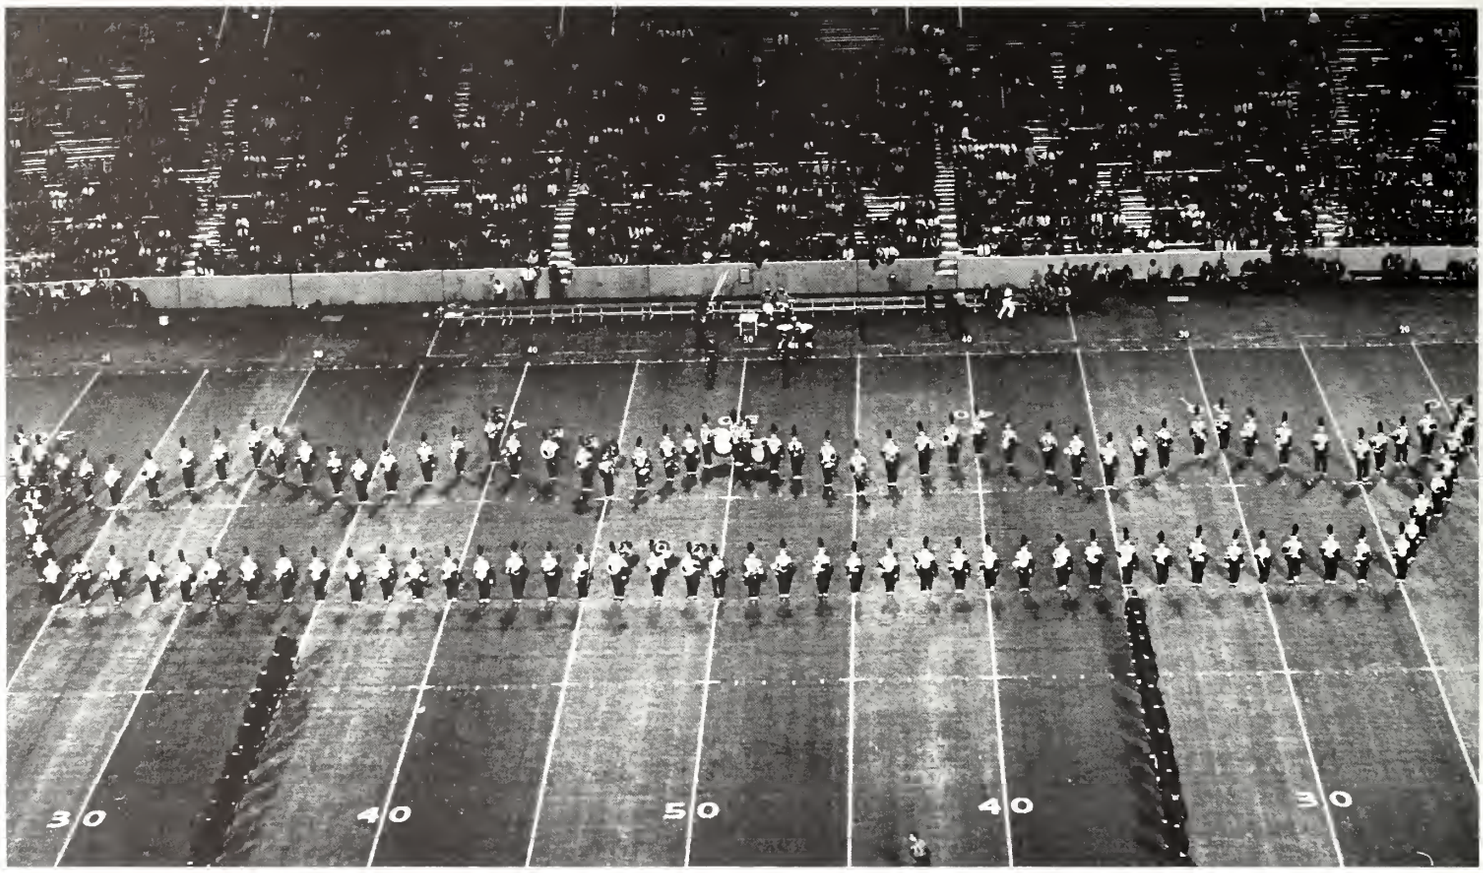
As part of an experiment in adapting literary forms to the stage, A Country "Love Story" and "The Bride Comes to Yellow Sky" were staged in tandem in the January Chamber Theater production.



An appropriate formation is this crown for the Homecoming game in honor of the Queen.

Marching Band

The directing sergeants of the Cadet Band come to attention before their members. They are L. to R.: John Riley, Robert Parker and Ried McCoy.

Though their feet might ache, band members march proudly in their new uniforms.

AFROTC Band

Behind a camouflage of brass an absorbed band member adds his part to the National Anthem.

PUBLICATIONS

John Mummert and Janet Leach consult with editor Sonia Clark.

DeSoto Size Increases

The publishing of a yearbook is an enormous responsibility, but when the book is finally compiled and ready for distribution the staff can look with pride and satisfaction at what they have accomplished. This year's staff had an even larger undertaking with the increased size of the book and larger color section.

The DeSoto Beauty Revue, also sponsored by the yearbook is an added responsibility and source of pride to the yearbook staff. These projects, demanding longer hours and difficult assignments, are all a part of publications life.

T.R. Goes Semi-Weekly

This year saw the beginning of semi-weekly publication of The Tiger Rag. With the paper coming out twice a week the work for the staff was doubled, but they tackled this job with their usual enthusiasm and gave the students at a university the size of MSU what they wanted—increased news coverage of campus activities.

Controversial issues, sports news, social activities and feature articles all added to this year's student reading enjoyment.

The fall semester Tiger Rag, edited by Marcus Norton, received an All-American rating from Associated Collegiate Press. This award was presented to only nine other college papers in this category.

MSU's Photo Department Serves Campus Publications

Located in a quaint broom closet in the basement of the Administration Building, one may find at any hour of the day or night an avid little group of shutterbugs who compose the MSU photo service. Under the direction of their omnipotent leader, Mr. Gilbert Michael, this ambitious little group is kept busy crawling along the ground, under tables, and clinging in bat-like positions in order to supply campus publications with undoubtedly the promptest service and best possible photographic work. Everyone from deans to the lowest member of any publication can be seen entering this happy hunting ground of photographers day or night.

This happy group came into being on June 1, 1963. Through their program, ranging from black and white stills for publications to moving pictures, they have achieved a better public image for the university.

Top R to L: Marrin Fleet, Gilbert Michael, John Clinton, Jerry Hankins, Richard Copley, Bill Anderson.

Two members of the staff discuss layout for the Phoenix.

Students Publish Phoenix

The Phoenix, the campus literary magazine, provides an excellent opportunity for aspiring authors to display their literary wares in print. The Phoenix, epitomizing all of the characteristics of the mythological bird whose name it bears, is a source of pride for its staff and the university.

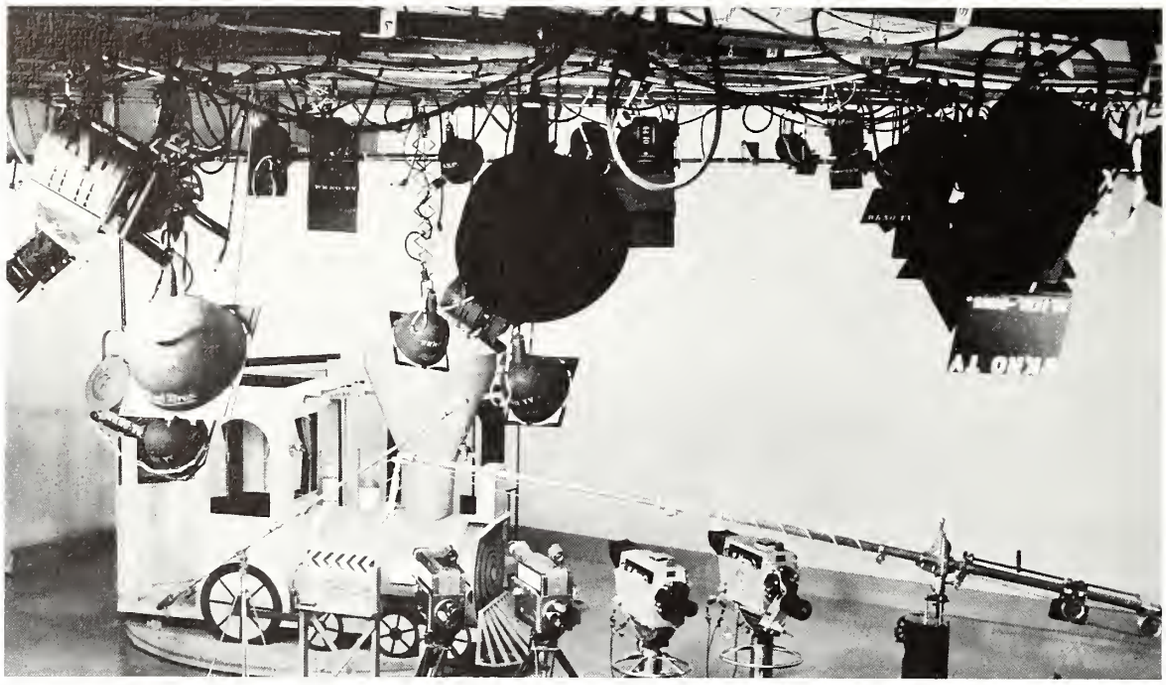
The editorial staff, under the direction of Mr. Harry Minitree, selects the best works submitted for consideration. Within its covers may be found any type of literature.

Public Information Office Spreads News of MSU

Mrs. Wilson is a valuable asset to the PIO office.

Mr. Charles Holmes and Judy Phillips are always hard at work taking care of university public relations.

The Public Information Office, under the direction of Mr. Charles Holmes, is responsible for MSU students who make headlines so often. This office, which incorporates the News Bureau, has the responsibility for seeing that the university receives all of the publicity which it so richly deserves as one of America's awakening giants of education. It also offers on-the-job-training for students interested in public relations work.



The studios of WKNO provide an interesting classroom for journalism students.

WKNO and Classroom 68 Broadcast

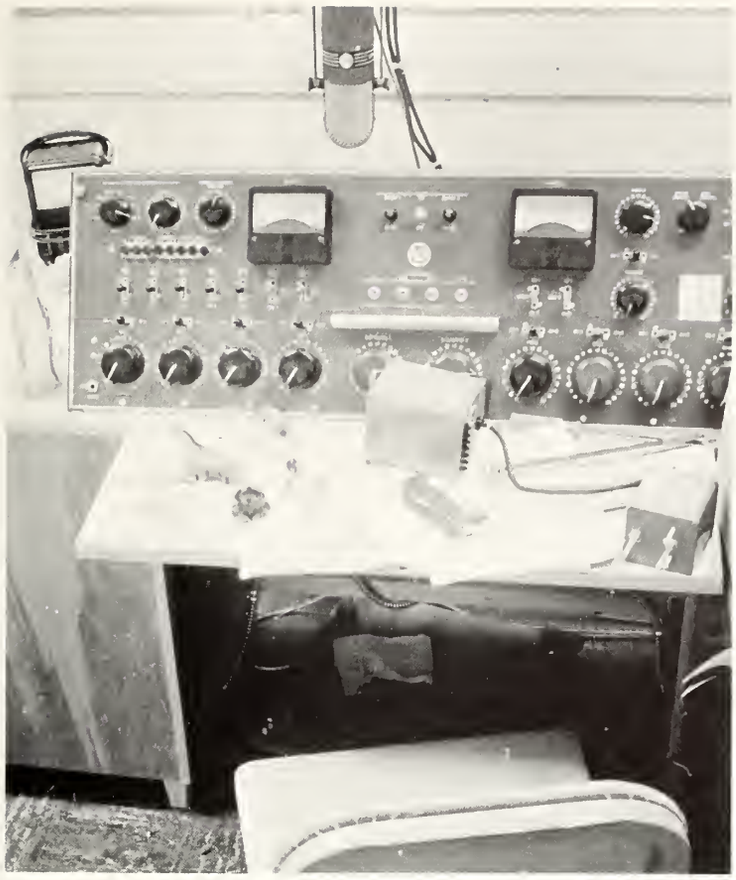
Memphis State is fortunate to have located on its campus the studios of WKNO television station. WKNO broadcasting over Channel 10 serves Memphis as a cultural and educational showplace. It is also a training ground for journalism students interested in the field of television. Here students receive valuable training and experience which they could never receive in a regular classroom.

Students enjoy the frolicking of Tom Meeks.

Every Sunday evening from 7-8 on WMPS, students are treated to the rare delight of listening to Mr. Tom Meeks, Classroom 68 announcer and a Memphis State student. Radio tubes hum with the unequaled humor of Mr. Meeks as he interviews various campus personalities. Between spontaneous outbursts of indescribably good humor and infamous anecdotes, news of campus activities is revealed to Mr. Meeks' captivated radio audience.

Campus beauties add interest to Classroom 68.



New equipment will soon enable broadcasting in the Memphis State area

WRPC Is New Campus Station

This year Memphis State points proudly to its new campus radio station, which is located on the second floor of the WKNO television studios at the eastern end of the campus. The station, which is now broadcasting in the faculty dining room, will soon be broadcasting on a city-wide hookup for two hours each evening. WRPC's listeners will hear news, music and information about the university's forthcoming activities. Through WRPC Memphis State students will be able to familiarize themselves with the inner workings and procedures of radio production.

The staff of WRPC enjoy their work.

A technician makes a last minute check of equipment.

ACADEMICS at MSU

President Humphreys' prominence as a speaker is well known throughout the Mid-South area.

Humphreys Watches Growth

From a special agent with the Federal Bureau of Investigation to president of Memphis State University, the life of President Cecil C. Humphreys has been filled with interesting activities and many accumulated honors.

President Humphreys began his career with MSU in 1937 as an instructor of history. After an absence in which he served the FBI and the U.S. Navy, he returned to MSU as athletic director. From there he climbed to various executive positions before climaxing his career at MSU as its president.

He has been heard to comment that the most enjoyable aspect of his career has been seeing the growth and development of MSU and the expansion of opportunities for quality education for the youth of this area.

In an interview President Humphreys stated that his greatest gratification is the increaing acceptance of MSU as a vital factor in the life of Memphis and the surrounding community.

The office of president requires long hours of hard work.

Hours with his sons are precious to President Humphreys.

The position of president requires continual study and much concentration.

MSU is proud of its handsome first family.

A & S Offers Variety

Fine arts, science, and humanities are the main areas emphasized by the School of Arts and Science. Throughout the various buildings, marks of progress are depicted. The "space control center" in Jones Hall is the modern lab, which aids the language student in perfecting his pronunciation. Other up-to-date student facilities include science research labs, the art auditorium, and modern classrooms.

Pursuits in the School of Arts and Science require concentration and careful study.

DR. DANA D. JOHNSON, Chairman

A liberal program of education is offered by the School of Arts and Science in many fields.

ART cultivates the aesthetic abilities of students and expresses their creations on canvas, clay, and wood.

BIOLOGY, "the study of life" emphasizes the observance of various species of living matter.

DR. CARL D. BROWN, Chairman

MR. JESSE W. FOX, Chairman

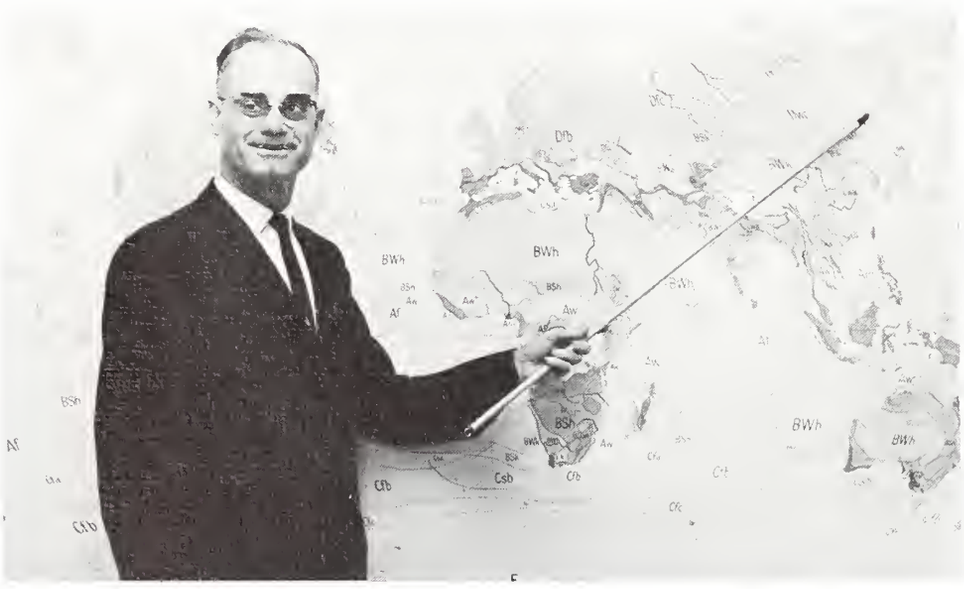
CHEMISTRY AND PHYSICS department is characterized by patience and endless research.

DR. ROY E. WATKINS and DR. CHARLES E. LONG, Chairmen

CLASSICAL AND MODERN Languages make the garble of foreign tongues meaningful to the student.

JOURNALISM is the training ground for future news reporters, copyists, and editors.

DR. HERBERT L. WILLIAMS, Chairman



DR. PAUL H. SISCO, Chairman

GEOGRAPHY classrooms in Johnson Hall contain students who explore the varied topography of the world several times a week.

Students discover exciting new realms as they experiment.

Students often pause at the Associated Press teletype to glean news as it happens.

DR. WILLIAM BITTNER, Chairman

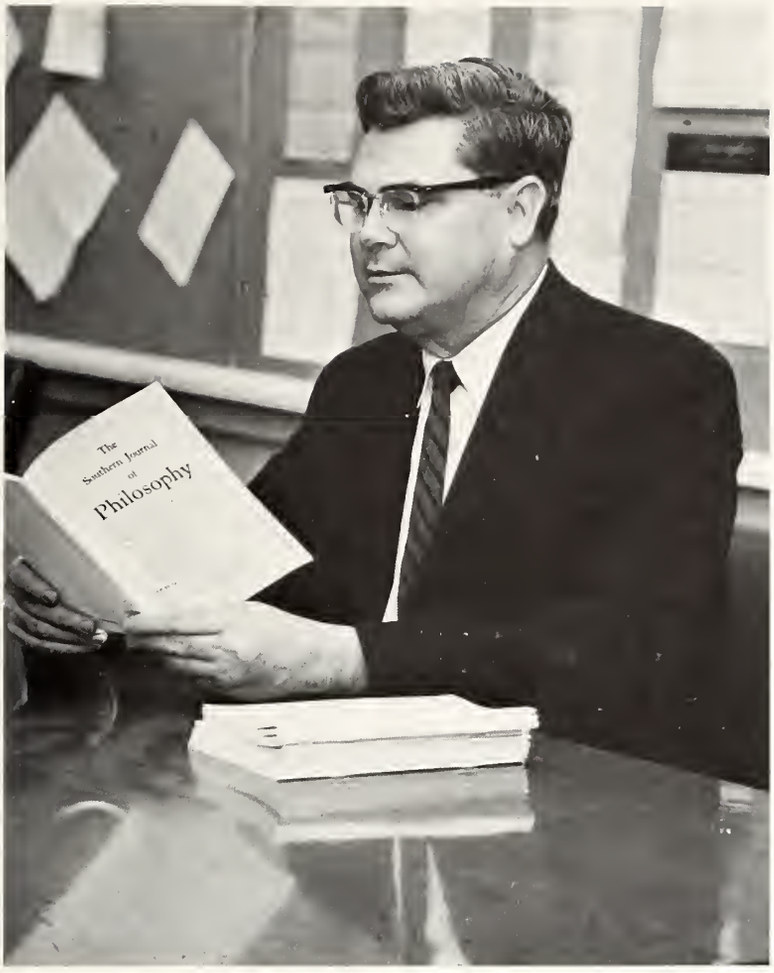
ENGLISH represents one of the finest and most challenging courses of study at Memphis State University.

DR. AARON M. BOOM, Chairman

HISTORY courses present the significant events of the world to the Memphis State student.

MATHEMATICS, involving geometric theorems, trigonometric formulas, and algebraic equations, gives many students a big headache.

DR. HOWARD S. KALTENBORN, Chairman



DR. W. B. BARTON, Chairman

PHILOSOPHY students propound certain philosophical theories in the pursuit of truth.

DR. JAMES R. McCANN, Chairman

PSYCHOLOGY students examine the behavior of all animals, from simple rats to insubordinate students.

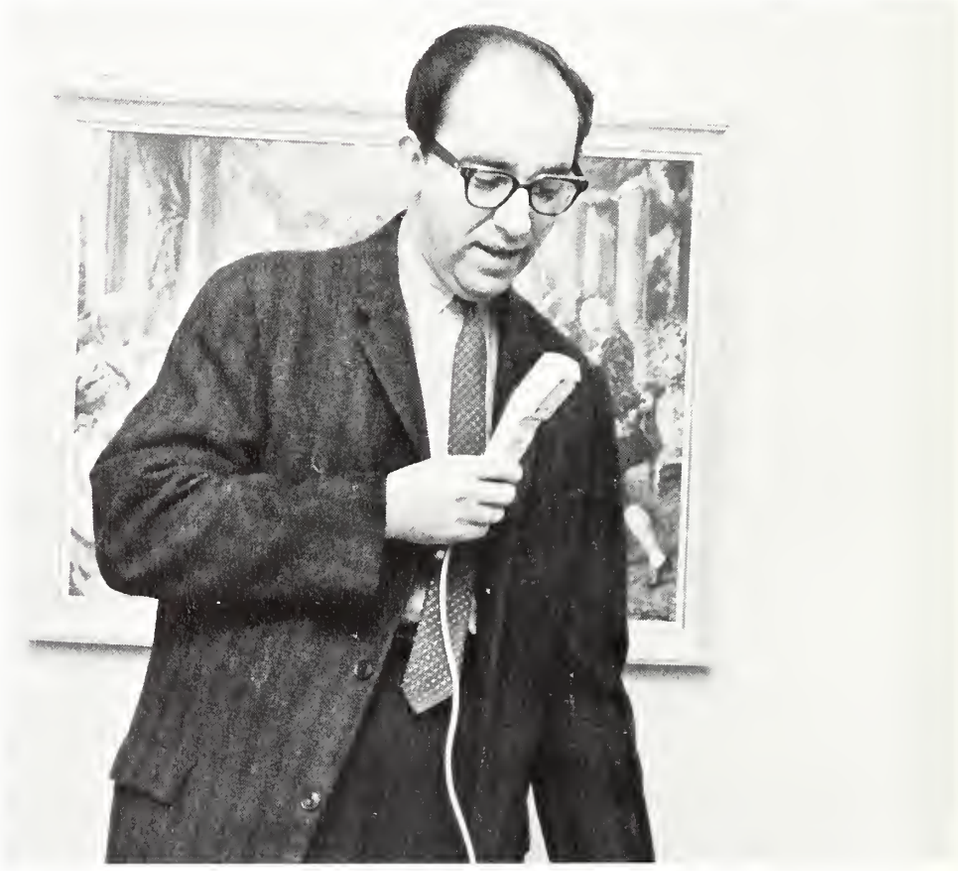
DR. EDWIN C. BUELL, Chairman

POLITICAL SCIENCE emphasizes sophistication in political thought and analyzes past and present political theories.

SOCIOLOGY and ANTHROPOLOGY department's basis of study is provided by the social interaction of various cultural and ethnic groups.

DR. CHARLES H. NEWTON, Chairman

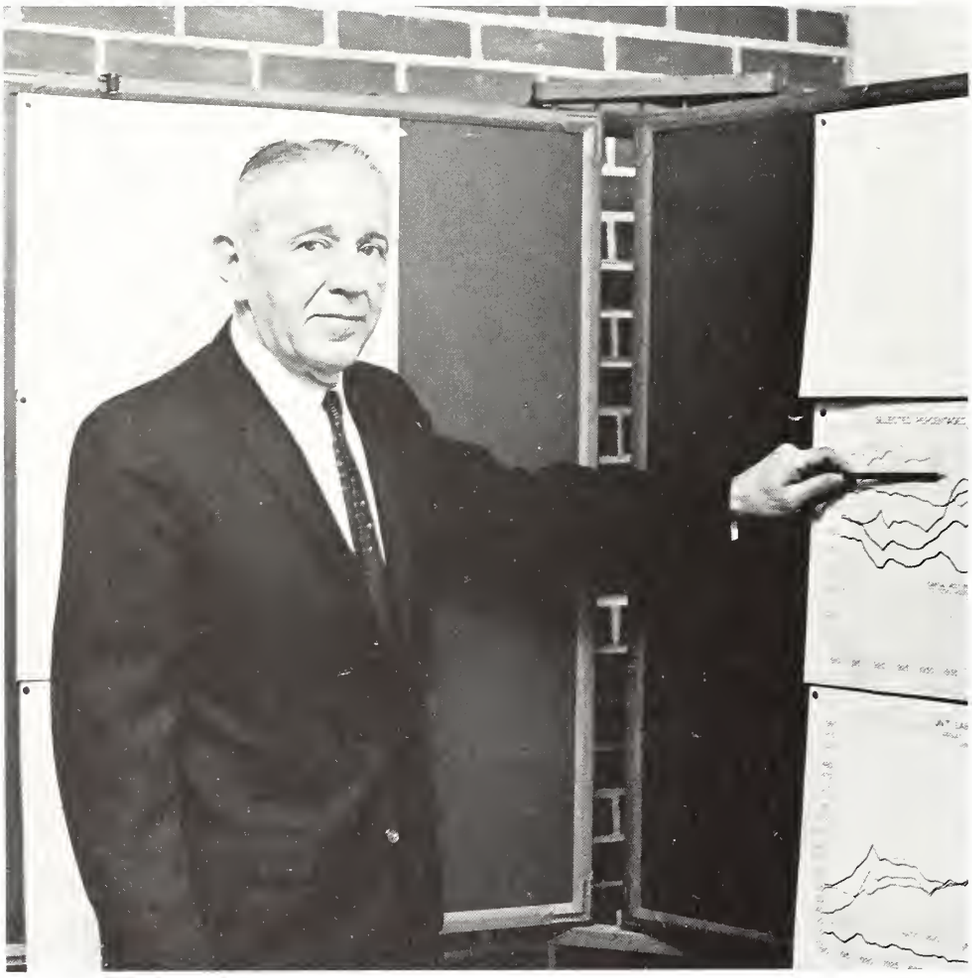
SPEECH AND DRAMA department offers experience from which both future Congressmen and local D.J.'s may profit.



DR. HARRY AUSPRICH, Chairman

Voicing an opinion is the prerogative of the interested student.

Following exams anxious students race to their professors' offices to glimpse the posted grades.



DR. HERBERT J. MARKLE, Dean

BA Prepares Leaders

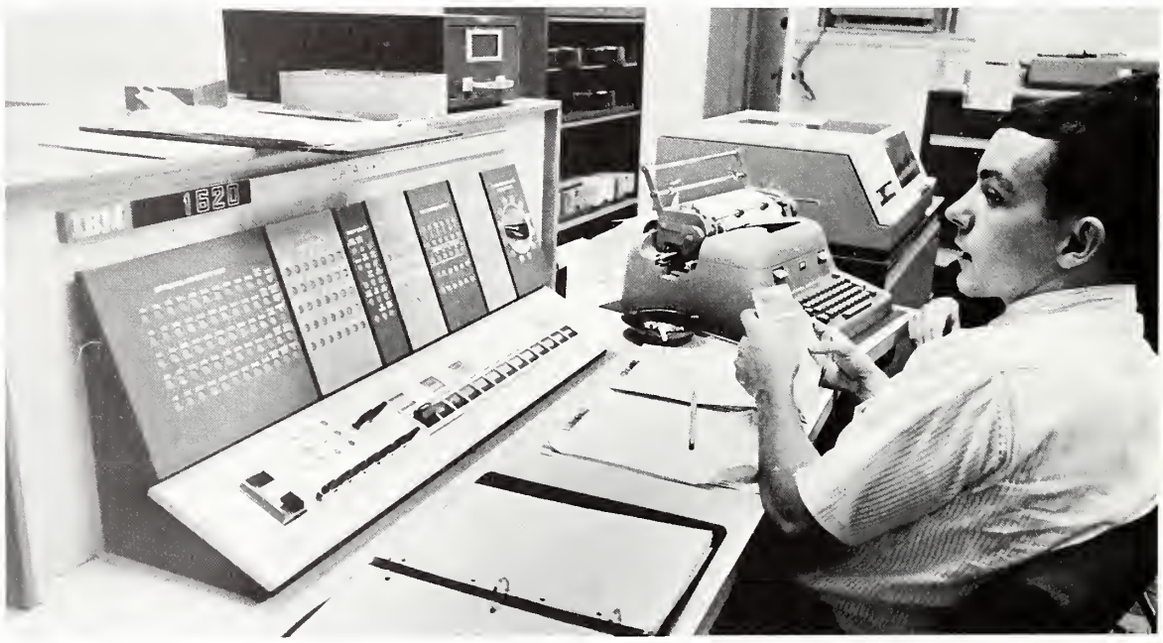
The nation's economy will move with future business leaders. Those graduating from the Memphis State School of Business Administration have a thorough knowledge of the various facets of the business cycle. The Business Administration Building reminds one of a home office of a large corporation, with office machines which hum by day and sleep at night; a department for every aspect of the business world; and, above all, students who regard their work with a seriousness of purpose only to be equalled by actual executives in today's national enterprises.



MSU's new course in IBM marks another plateau of development for the School of Business Administration.

MR. J. T. THOMPSON, Chairman

ACCOUNTING—an "exercise in precision." The recording of money being important to all business concerns, the accounting student must learn all phases of the study, involving much more than simple eighth grade addition and subtraction.

DR. FESTUS J. VISER, Chairman

ECONOMICS AND FINANCE is a field which is dominated by the male gender. To acquire technical knowledge concerning monetary matters is the goal of the student.

MR. CHARLES R. SPINDLER, Chairman

MARKETING is the retail and wholesale distribution of produced goods. In other words, it is through the workings of "the little old marketer" that necessities and luxuries are obtained.

DR. HERBERT MARKLE, Chairman

MANAGEMENT in business realms is an important facet of organized administration. Efficiency, neatness, and tact are only three requirements for a good manager.

SECRETARIAL SCIENCE is composed of pert, fashionable young ladies who are being trained to be "jacks-of-all-trades" in the secretarial world. They must be adept in typing, filing, general office practice and even "housekeeping."

DR. R. W. JENNINGS, Chairman

An informal class directed by a knowledgeable professor makes school an enjoyable process.

Participating in typing labs insures added proficiency.

DR. SAMUEL H. JOHNSON, Dean

Studies Stress Thought

To teach people to think is the purpose of education. The School of Education provides a varied program enabling students to secure a fundamental knowledge necessary for the future teacher. The campus school provides an opportunity for students to observe classes on the elementary level. In classroom discussions the democratic method of teaching is emphasized. A semester of student teaching, a requirement for all future teachers, enables students to apply ideas and knowledge acquired in the classroom.

Learning to think poses many new questions to questing students.

The challenge of teaching is aproached by both student and teacher.

DR. ELLERY E. CRADER, Chairman

DR. HEBER E. RUMBLE, Chairman

CURRICULUM AND INSTRUCTION presents a diverse program for the student teacher preparing for her first day as "teacher." The curriculum library serves as a reservoir of knowledge to prepare students for the teaching profession.

HEALTH AND PHYSICAL EDUCATION provides for physical and mental exercise in its program involving a wide range of activities. Modern and folk dancing, intra-murals, and gymnastics are representative of this specialized program.

EDUCATION ADMINISTRATION aids the educational administrator in solving the problems encountered in the public school system. Ethical and technical knowledge is acquired through various learning techniques.

RALPH L. HATLEY, Chairman

MISS ALMA WHITAKER, Chairman

HOME ECONOMICS emphasizes the role of the woman as a homemaker in this fast changing world. Cooking, sewing, and home management are only a few skills the collegiate woman acquires through work in this field.

MUSIC fills the air at Memphis State, as interested students endeavor to perfect their soprano, alto, and monotone voices. Special programs allow students to get the knack of performing.

DR. GEORGE J. HARRIS, Chairman

IA Teaches Skills

The department of Industrial Technology is representative of the growth of Memphis State University. This department directs the study of industrial arts and technology. The clanking of machines and the drilling of tools are distinctive of this department which emphasizes the importance of mechanical skills.

Industrial Arts gives students a chance to gain satisfaction from planning and constructing their own projects.

Grad School Grows

DR. JOHN W. RICHARDSON, Dean

Each year more and more students inquire about the Graduate School at Memphis State University. Specialization in various subjects ranging from education to engineering is offered by the program of the Graduate School. In this increasingly competitive society a larger number of interested students work toward advanced degrees in their respective fields.

Graduate students must use every available time to study.

Mr. Enoch Mitchell

Memorial Established Honoring Mr. Mitchell

The Enoch Mitchell Distinguished Professorship memorial fund passed $500 in January and started toward the goal of $10,000 designed to honor the memory of the man who gave so much to Memphis State University during nearly a lifetime of work on its campus.

The fund was established in Mr. Mitchell's memory shortly after his death, in the latter part of December.

From the day he came to Memphis State, Mr. Mitchell became an integral part of the school's operation.

At the time of his death, he was past secretary of the University Alumni Association; a trustee of Barth House, University Episcopal Student Center, Director of the J. P. Young Lecture Series, which he helped to originate, and a member of the University Athletic Committee.

Mr. Mitchell was widely recognized as one of the foremost historians on the history of the South and Tennessee in particular. He was active in local, regional, and national history societies.

Memphis State University can be proud to be the second institution in the state to offer a full law degree program. The school has undergone many changes and advancements in the past three years. It has been credited by the American Bar Association. The School maintains its own library for the convenience of the future lawyers.

Graduate School Enlarges Program

As Memphis State moves on to fulfill the qualifications of a true cosmopolitan University, the graduate school grows thusly. The program which started in 1950, offers advanced degrees in 22 subjects from various modern languages to the sciences.

Graduates must have completed a degree from an accredited college or university, have a minimum of a 2.5 overall undergraduate average, and maintain a 3.0 graduate average. Teaching and research assistantships are offered through the different departments.
